ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I wish to express my deep sense of gratitude to my teacher, guide and supervisor professor S. C. Mukhopadhyay, Ph. D, D. Sc. (Cal), Ex – Head of the Department of Geography, University of Calcutta. He is an internationally reputed geomorphologist and has attended many International Geographical and Geomorphological Conferences. His significant research publication is the Geomorphology of the Subarnarekha Basin. Apart from many other publications his monumental volume of research is The Jista Basin – A study in fluvial geomorphology. He is the key man behind the establishment of the reputed Institute of Landscape, Ecology and Esistics (IBLE) and is also the founder editor of the well known inter disciplinary journal Indian Journal of Landscape system and Ecological Studies, Calcutta. Without his valuable guidance, suggestions, supervision and above all active encouragement, it would never have been possible for me to continue and complete this research work.

This researcher expresses his profound indebtedness to different departments of the government of India and West Bengal e.g. Survey of India; Indian Meteorological Office, Alipore, Census of India; Central Ground
Water Board; National Atlas and Thematic Mapping Organization (NATMO); National Bureau of Soil Survey and Land Use Planning (NBSS & LUP); Department of Agriculture, Government of West Bengal; Bureau of Applied Economics and Statistics, Government of West Bengal; District Land Records Offices, Block Development Office and Panchayat Offices of the three districts.

This researcher expresses his indebtedness to Mr. Samir Hazra, Zilla Karmadakshya, Krishi O Sech, Paschim Medinipur; Manas Oja of State Soil Survey, Medinipur; Soil Survey Laboratory Staff of Medinipur for their invaluable assistance during soil sample analysis. My sincere thanks to Digha Development Authority for their continuous support. I express my heartfelt thanks to Mr. Srikrishna Maity of Relief Department, District Magistrate Office, Purba Medinipur. And lastly to my family members who rendered support and inspiration in this regard.