Pushpa and Razia wanted to know why I was interested in their lives and their work. When I told them why, they were rather unimpressed. They were not the only ones curious and skeptical of my motives. A lot of them believed this activity was not meant to benefit them, “This is going to serve some purpose of yours. People come and ask questions, nothing happens. Will you be able to help us?”

I hope this work becomes a stepping stone towards my being able to answer their questions in the affirmative.