ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In the creation of a work like this one, there are always many people who create the fabric of support so necessary for a person to be able to function properly. I thank them all.

I feel truly indebted to my supervisor, Prof. K.R. Nayar, under whose guidance I evolved as a researcher and acquired a sense of direction. He took upon himself not only the responsibilities of guiding me and timing my work, but also of listening to my woes and supporting me patiently through it all.

I wish to thank all other faculty members of the centre, my teachers who, each in their own way shaped my cognition. Also, I thank Mrs. M.D. Rastogi and Dinesh for helping me avail the facilities of the documentation unit.

Mr. G. Halkar of the NIHFW National Documentation Centre went out of his way to help me. Besides, I would like to acknowledge the Nehru Memorial Library and the NIPFP for extending the library facilities to me. I am thankful to Dr. R.P. Singh, Deputy Registrar General (Maps), Census of India, who arranged for the maps used in this thesis.

I am also grateful to the Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR) for funding my study.

In Lucknow, the staff of the "Development Commissioner's (Handicrafts) Office, Uttar Pradesh Export Corporation and District Industries Centre was extremely helpful. Also, Mr. V. B. Rastogi and Mr. Pankaj Arya from Shilp Sadhana, Mr. Nawazish Ali from Dwar Pe Rozi and Mr. Sanjay Dixit from Shiv Sahitya Parishad helped me immensely. I also wish to thank Mrs. Shameem Jahan, Mrs. Aliya Bano, Mrs. Rachna Mehrotra and their families for their warm and friendly support. I owe an enormous debt to the embroiderers and artisans of Lucknow.

On a more personal level, I particularly want to thank my parents who gave me their love, strength and positive attitudes, and who equipped me for my chosen tasks in the innumerable ways that parents can, often without knowing, and most often with little reward. Biji and Bauji have waited patiently for my each step forward in life. This one is for them.

The fights and quarrels with Ashish that have graduated to debates and discussions over the years have paved the way for my becoming the person that I am. His being closer to me as this work gets completed lends a special feeling to it.

Mahesh pushed me to always strive for excellence even in the face of obstacles. For leaving aside his work to help me at every stage of this thesis, for fruitful discussions, for friendship, love and emotional support, and for his endless patience in dealing with the temperamental person that I am, I cannot thank him enough.

Amma, Appa and Venkatesh have been a constant source of support throughout.

Abhirami and Biju, whose encouragement and friendship I have come to value so dearly, pulled me out of despair and were always there to answer my distress calls.

I have been fortunate to receive advice, encouragement and support from my friends in various ways. I wish to express my heartfelt thanks to all of them – Meenu, Devi, Biju, Rajendram anna, Shanti akka, Bala, Radhika, Robert and Sofia. The little ones, Mythirege, Siddharth, Shraddha, Tammana and Hima have made this a most memorable experience by 'becoming my friends'.
