Preface

I would like to express my gratitude to my teacher and supervisor Dr. Hari Vasudevan for his valuable suggestions and constant encouragement throughout the period of my research. His enlightening advice has always been a source of inspiration for me. I am really grateful for the time he spared in guiding me through this work and the immense patience with which he dealt with all my lapses.

The Indian Council of Social Science Research awarded me an Institutional Doctoral Fellowship from March 1991 to March 1993, through the Centre for Studies in Social Sciences, Calcutta. This fellowship enabled me to take time off from my college duties and begin my research project in right earnest. I acknowledge the financial assistance provided by the ICSSR through the CSSSC for those two years. I would also like to thank Professor Saugata Mukherjee of the Centre for Studies in Social Sciences, Calcutta, for very kindly consenting to formally act as my supervisor during the tenure of my fellowship.

The other institutions which have been of great use to me are the National Library, Calcutta, the Indira Gandhi National Centre for Arts, New Delhi and the Jawaharlal Nehru University Library, New Delhi. The staff of all these three libraries as well as of the libraries at the CSSSC and at Calcutta University have been extremely helpful and I would like to express my sincere thanks for their co-operation.
