CONTENTS

I. INTRODUCTION

1.1 Evolution of Tribal/Herbal Medicine.
1.2 Decline of Traditional Medicine
1.3 Revival of Interest in Herbal Medicine.
1.4 Popularity of Traditional Medicine.
1.5 Ethnobotanical approach to Drug Development.
1.6 Quality Control and Standardisation of Medicinal Plants and Herbal Drugs.
1.7 Need for Multidisciplinary approach to Herbal Drug Evaluation

II. REVIEW OF LITERATURE

II.1 Ethnobotany
II.2 Ethnobotanical Study in India
II.3 Pharmacognosy
II.4 Pharmacognostic Studies in India
II.5 Ethnopharmacology
II.6 Ethnopharmacology Research in India
II.7 Systematic Study Of Crude Drugs
II.8 Herbal Medicine Industry in India, Opportunities and Challenges

III. MATERIALS AND METHODS

IV. RESULT

IV.1 Enumeration of Ethnomedicinal Plants Studied From Kollam District
IV.2 Phytochemical and Pharmacological Aspects of The Plants Investigated

V. DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

VI. REFERENCES