CONTENTS

Acknowledgement
List of Photographs
List of Tables
List of Appendices
Abbreviations
Glossary

Chapter 1
Background of the study 1-43
  1.1 Introduction
  1.2 Labour Movement in Jharkahnd: Tribes, Class and Gender Intersections.
  1.3 Review of Literature
    1.3.1 Sociological Understanding of Women’s work and status
    1.3.2 Women in development studies
    1.3.3 Women Workers in the course of development
    1.3.4 Studies on Indian Labour
    1.3.5 Studies on Jharia coalmines
  1.4 Objective and Scope of the study
  1.5 Chapterization Scheme.

Chapter 2 44-73
The Field and its Social Composition
  2.1 The Field.
    2.1.1 Physical Terrain
    2.1.2 The Residential pattern
  2.2 Social Composition of the Field
    2.2.1 Migration pattern in the mining town
Chapter 3

Methods of Research

3.1 Choice of methods
3.2 Fieldwork Strategy
3.3 Experiences on Field

Chapter 4

Work in the Coalmines

4.1 Early Mining Days and Work Culture.
4.2 Labor Movement before the nationalization of coalmines
4.3 Nationalization of Coalmines and the subsequent Labour Movements.
4.4 Work culture: Post nationalization
  4.4.1 Organizational structure at work.
  4.4.2 Working condition
  4.4.3 Gender politics at work and women’s recruitment
  4.4.4 Workers’ health
  4.4.5 Political world of the workers and trade unions.

Chapter 5

Danger at work and Issues of Safety

5.1 Negotiating Safety at work place
  5.1.1 Tour of the Underground mines
  5.2 Resistance to work by the miners
  5.3 Provision related to Occupational health and safety

Chapter 6

Portrait of women’s struggle at the coalmines

6.1 Motherhood, Mothercraft and Maternity Benefit Act
6.2 Working-class politics and women’s revolt in the coalmines
6.3 Narratives from the field
Chapter 7

The Everyday life of the Coalminers and their Narratives

7.1 Migrants and their social ties
7.2 Family and marriage
7.3 Decision making at home and work
7.4 Changes over the year, the day to day life
7.5 Festivals and their religious believes

CONCLUSION

BIBLIOGRAPHY