ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This work has indebted me for life. And to many people. To all of them my eternal gratitude.

It would never have got done without the financial, emotional and intellectual support of Githa Hariharan. She has constantly put aside her writing to earn our livelihood so that I could continue with my work. This is one debt I shall never be able to repay.

My parents, Kapila Rao and B.V.R. Rao, offered us a haven in Bangalore while I was on field work for almost two years. They made certain Githa and Rishab did not miss me. Indeed, with their unusual, unquestioning love, they transformed Rishab entirely. I do not suppose he will ever forgive me for moving him back to the horrors of New Delhi. I hope he will understand.

Dr. Imrana Qadeer had been more than a Supervisor; she has been a friend offering me her frail shoulders to weep on when I felt I had had too much of it! Even as she mercilessly egged me on, she assured me I could do it when I felt, as I often did, that I had taken on something too large for me to be able to cope with.

Prof. D. Banerji frequently, and vociferously, provided reassuring support. Dr. K.R. Nayar, on the other hand, quietly assisted me in manners too innumerable to enlist. Another teacher and friend I cannot forget is Prof. Dipankar Gupta. He taught me that learning at this great age of mine could be besotting. That it has been, although fraught.

Prof. Ramachandran of the I.C.M.R. gave me statistical comfort in the design and sampling of the study. Prof. Utsa Patnaik provided unstinting support, including access to her then unpublished manuscripts.

I was terrified of this creature called a computer. I approached many people to find out if this was an animal I could tame, and was promptly dismissed. But D. Raghunandan of Delhi Science Forum was patience personified as he helped to make me, as they say, "computer friendly". He did this in so easy a manner that I could deal with my data, hitherto unfriendly. Mr. Satyendra Kumar assisted greatly with tabulations, and Mrs. Rastogi of our Centre with documents.

Above all, my respondents. Among others, my special thanks to Tailor V. Venkatesh, Tammne Gowda, Lingaraju, Nagaraju, Postmasterru, Kariya, Swami Gowda and Dr. Krishne Gowda.
