Acknowledgements

The course of PhD would have been a never ending task without the support, proper guidance and blessings of elders, and of course the co-operation of friends. To say a few words of gratitude I have felt during the course of my PhD would not be sufficient to fully acknowledge them. However, since this is the only recourse left to me, I will hope that it will partly serve the purpose.

I am extremely grateful to my supervisor, Professor Gulshan Dietl for her guidance, patience, support and constructive criticism. I am thankful for her for taking me under her wings, and giving me the liberty and guidance to mould my arguments and use the data I had in the most comprehensive manner. Her extra effort and special interest in the present work helped me to complete it on time.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank my previous supervisor, Professor K. R. Singh, due to whose encouragement I was able to take the first step towards working for this thesis. His support guidance, and coaching in methodology were instrumental helping me choose my topic of research and give it the shape it has been completed in.

I would like to thank all the faculty members of our centre for their encouragement and support. Special thanks are due to Professor Girijesh Pant, Professor A.K. Pasha and Professor Kumaraswamy, for their help whenever I needed it. I would also like to thank Professor Bari, of the Arabic Studies Centre who helped me with books, research material and discussions on the Muslim Brotherhood movement. I would also like to thank Professor S.S. Deora of the Department of Political Geography, SIS for his assistance in my research.

I would like to thank the staff of our centre, for helping me out of bureaucratic bottlenecks every time. I would also like to thank the seniors, colleagues and juniors in my centre for helping me in dealing with small nitty-gritty's of research. I am also grateful to the staff of the University Library for their co-operation and help.

I may miss out on a few names, but the gratitude to my friends who stood by me in times need and otherwise too, cannot be underestimated. I have been extremely lucky on the front of friends. A very special thanks to Mr. El-Sayed E. Mekkawi for all the guidance and help he rendered when I was working on the case study of Egypt. An equally special thanks to Tejaswani Patil, Puspita Das and Archna Srivastva, for helping me in my research. I would like to thank my hostel mates Jyoti Reddy, Kavita, Poonam,
Namrata, Shilpa, Shruti, Noorin and the rest of my friends in the hostel. Their constant support, help and encouragement will always be memorable.

I owe a special gratitude to my family, particularly my eldest brother Rizwan, who has supported me throughout the course of my research. He took time out of his busy schedules to not only encourage me, but also to go through my incomplete works and comment on them whenever he could. I do not have words to thank my mother, my father and my other brother and their blessings, love and support. And I would not be doing justice to myself if I do not acknowledge the Almighty for His guidance and support.

Rushda Siddiqui