ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The researcher is extremely grateful to Dr. A. Bopegamage, Professor of Sociology, Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics, Pune, for his valuable guidance, patience and encouragement in completing this thesis.

My deep gratitude goes to my Alma Mater - Tata Institute of Social Sciences for all the support by way of the use of the Ph.D. hostel, Library and Electronic data processing. I cannot thank Prof. J.C. Sharma, Reader, E.D.P. enough for all the advice in the use of statistical methods and the computer work, and the help in securing grants for data processing.

I am grateful to the Indian Council of Social Science Research for the seed money grant offered to develop the research proposal and the generous grant for electronic data processing at its Tata Institute of Social Sciences Centre.

I thank the Management and staff of the five agencies, viz., Bapnu Ghar, Bombay, the Family Welfare Agency, Bombay, the Family Service Centre, Bombay, the Bharatiya Samaj Seva Kendra, Pune, and the Family Counselling Bureau of Poona Women's Council that provided the valuable field data for this research. Data collection at each of these agencies was very enjoyable and I received the most willing help from every staff member at each of these agencies.

(i)
The libraries of Tata Institute of Social Sciences, Bombay, Jayakar Library, Poona University, British Council Library and the libraries of Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics and Karve Institute of Social Service, Pune and the National Institute of Public Cooperation and Child Development, New Delhi, offered invaluable material and cooperation in building up the reference and theoretical aspects of this research. I acknowledge with deep gratitude, all their cooperation.

My own family support systems rendered yeoman's services to me while I was at this work. My sister Dr. Sumati Nair and the Nair family toiled hard to save my life when I underwent two life saving operations while doing my doctoral work. Without them, this work could not have seen the light of the day. My husband Mr. S.N. Kaushik and sons Gautam and Rahul were my constant mentors. I am very grateful to all of them.

Miss Sharmila Pandya, Mr. Bhide and Mr. Unnikrishnan typed the first draft of this thesis. The neat final typing is done by Mr. S.M. Kulkarni. I thank them for all their hard work.
