ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to express my deep sense of gratitude to my supervisor, a devoted teacher Dr. Dawa Norbu, Associate Professor, School of International Studies, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi, Hon. Fellow, University of Durham (U.K.), for his guidance and for sharing his in-depth knowledge and vast experience, who was instrumental in giving a good shape to this work.

I am very much grateful to D.C. Ahir, author of several books on Ambedkar and Buddhism and Prof. Dr. D. Kantowsky, Faculty of Sociology, University of Konstanz, Germany, for their apt suggestions, which made me to go deep into the study.

It is pleasure to mention the name of Prof. S.K. Thorat, School of Social Sciences, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi, for his constant encouragement throughout my Ph.D. work.

I am very much thankful to my friend, C. Rajshekar, who helped me in editing this work. I am also thankful to my friend, Dr. Umesh Kumar Singh, for his help and co-operation. I am equally thankful to my friends, Sushil Kumar, Yerram Setti Gurumurthy, Bandi Srinivas Rao, Tadi Venkataramana Kumar, K. Suresh, Sajeev and Ramki for extending all necessary help.

I have special thanks to my friends, Melinat Ramesh, Konda Y. Rathnam, Venkateswara Rao, Narendra Reddi, S. Srinivas Rao, Liyakat Ali, Mahendra Pratap Rana, G. Sathya, Lakshmanan, Kati Siddhartha, Shekhar Varaprasad, Pavanandi, Raj Praveen, Umesh Kumar, Chandramani, Joseph, Santanu, Chandrasekhar, Dharma, and Suresh Kumar.

I am very much indebted to the various authors, whose works I have consulted. I am thankful to the Library staff of JNU, Delhi University, Tibetan Library, Delhi, Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar Institute of Social Sciences, Mhow, M.P., Tibetan Works and Archives and Information Office of H.H. Dalai Lama, Dharamsala, H.P. I am also thankful for the co-operation of the authorities of JNU. And my thanks to UGC for granting me fellowship to complete this Ph.D. thesis.

I would like to thank my sisters L. Vijaya and L. Jayasree for their invaluable co-operation.
I will always remain grateful to my parents, who are the source of inspiration, to complete this work.

I would also like to acknowledge the services of Mr. Bhupal Singh Bisht for good typing of the manuscript.
