Acknowledgement

It would be sheer ignorance and arrogance to believe that any work of research can be an individual endeavour. I therefore humbly acknowledge the guidance and the help provided by my supervisor Prof. Utsa Patnaik whose contribution comes foremost to my mind. Madam, you not only added depth to my study, but also directed my perseverance which otherwise would remain scattered. Yes, you showed how to put my figures in the right perspective, that vision and sharpness of sight that only you could bring to me with your experience. No words can invoke the heartfelt gratefulness that envelops me when I look back over the entire research period.

My special thanks to Prof. Sheilla Bhalia, Dr. P. K. Jha (CESP) and Prof. A.K. Habib (CSRD) for enabling me to clarify my doubts through the intellectual discussions they involved me in. I owe my gratitude to Prof. B. N. Das and Prof. Bhagabata Patra of Department of Economics (Berhampur University) for helpful suggestions at the initial stage.

I am indebted to the slum dwellers at New Delhi and Bhubaneswar for their kind co-operation during my field study. It was Rani (the ex-messenger girl of Godavari hostel) who took the pains of accompanying me to the slums. Thank you Rani for introducing me to the slum dwellers.

I offer my thanks to Viswapriya kanoongoo and my friend Chitta Ranjan Satapathy who had helped me during my field study in Bhubaneswar. Thanks are also due to my childhood friend Bulu, Ashok and Ashutosh Minan whose help and co-operation was overwhelming at the time of field study in New Delhi.

Friends at Indian Statistical Institute (New Delhi) have been a constant source of inspiration and emotional warmth. I am at a loss of words to express my gratitude to Uma and Saiket who ignited the initial sparks of academic interest in me. I extend my special thanks to Arup, Abhay, Nimisha, Pallavi and Sriparna whose very presence meant a volume of affection in my life. My demands were unending and their help limitless!

Beena you deserve special mention, as your presence has been especially enlightening as you shared my worries and apprehensions and helped dissipate them. Thank you for your relentless co-operation at every stage. I also thank to Vaiju, Smitha, Krishna Kumar, Manjusha, Minakshi, Ranjana and many more friends at JNU who helped to bring my thesis to a conclusion. I am also thankful to a special friend Sahanaaaz who in spite of his busy schedule never hesitated to help me in tabulating my data. I am especially grateful to Manju for providing numerous help at the last stage of my thesis. My Thanks are also due to Ragini, Vidushi, Ajay, Usha, Pranab and Swati whose continued love, support, and a dancing spirit mean a great deal to me.

My special thanks goes to my friends Sabita and Umakant (BITS, Pilani) for providing tremendous moral support at crucial moments. I desire to express my thanks to Ajit and many a friends at IIT, Kanpur especially Anjana who helped me in many ways. Special thanks to her again for the meticulous proof reading and a warm thanks to Monie, her little daughter who allowed her to do so.

I am grateful to the library staff of JNU, National Institute of Public Finance and Policy (NIPFP), National Institute of Urban Affairs (NIUA), Indian Statistical Institute (ISI) and Teen Murty Library at New Delhi, Central University at Hyderabad, Indian Institute of Technology at Kanpur, Nabakrushna Choudhury Institute of Developmental Research and CYSD at Bhubaneswar for giving me the opportunity to use their library facilities. I thank to Indian Council of Social Science and Research (ICSSR) for providing the financial assistance to carry out my research work smoothly.

Mr. Raj Gopal, Bistji, Bacha Singhji and the other official staff of CESP and also of the School of Social Sciences have been extremely cooperative whenever I needed their help. I offer my heartfelt thanks to them. I also thank Mr Anilji and Jashbirji for taking the pain to format the chapters and bringing my thesis into proper form.

My sentiments towards my parents, sisters, in-laws and other family members are too deep a sentiment to be expressed in words. However, I am grateful to my brother-in- law Dr. B.K. Mishra for sending me valuable materials from a distant place and saving lot of my time.

Finally I must mention that this thesis is the outcome of the unlimited support I have received from the beginning till the end of my research work from my best friend and husband, Arbind. I share my happiness with him at the completion of this long awaited study.
