Acknowledgements

In the course of my research work I earned several debts which are both pleasant and memorable. I am grateful to the Zakir Husain Centre for Educational Studies where I studied and learnt the tools of research. This work could not have been possible without the learned guidance, constructive suggestions and sustained encouragement from my research supervisor, Prof. Deepak Kumar. He introduced me to this new research area in my very first research discussion and his high scholastic attainments in the area helped me immensely in understanding the theme. Besides I was helped no less by his rich personal collections in history of science which enabled me to consult several recent works. There are many more things to mention for all I sincerely express my thanks to him. The teachers of the Centre especially Prof. S. C. Ghosh, Prof. Karuna Chanaa, Prof. Binod Khadria taught me at my M. Phil stage and encouraged me to pursue research. I am grateful for receiving their learned suggestions and comments at the initial stages of this research. I have also received academic support from many teachers and fellow scholars. I gratefully acknowledge the help received from Dr. M. Satish Kumar who teaches now in the Belfast, UK, and Dr. Laxman Satya, Lock Heaven University, USA. To Dr. Neelam Kumar, I am specially grateful for her constant enquiry and encouragement. Discussions with friends on the subject improved in several ways my understanding. Some of the friends especially Biju Mathew, Eswar Rao, went through the draft and their suggestions improved some of my ideas. I thank all of them.

The research material for this work has been gathered at a number of archives and libraries.
