TITLE OF THESIS
A STUDY OF WOMEN EXECUTIVES IN BOMBAY : THEIR ROLES AT HOME AND WORK.

I hereby state that my research work is leading to the discovery of new facts. These facts are hypothesized under Chapter II of my thesis.

My work leads to the advancement of knowledge in the faculty of Sociology in general, and Women’s Studies in particular, as it provides the following:

(a) An insight into the novel and creative ways in which dual career couples are striving to satisfy the balance of work and family.

(b) The formulation of two tentative models, emerging from the study, which would help the increasing numbers of women executives who are entering the corporate world in industry, business and Government service.

(c) An opening for further research in this field of Women’s Studies.

TITLE OF THESIS
A STUDY OF WOMEN EXECUTIVES IN BOMBAY: THEIR ROLES AT HOME AND WORK.

I hereby state that information contained in Chapter I of my thesis is based on research from books, published papers, and research work (both published and unpublished), listed as bibliography at the end of the thesis.

I claim Chapters II, III, IV, V, VI and VII of my thesis as my original contribution, based on individual interviews of one hundred working women executives from diverse fields in the city of Bombay. In Chapters IV, V, VI and VII, however, a few references to work done by others have been made and duly acknowledged.
