ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to thank all the faculty members of the Department of Sociology, University of Hyderabad, for providing the training which enabled me to work on this thesis. Their useful suggestions and criticism at Departmental seminars on this thesis were helpful and enhanced the conceptual and methodological clarity of this study.

I am in immense debt to my research supervisor Prof. Ratna Naidu for her continuous encouragement and guidance during the course of my work. This work would not have been completed but for her constant interest and support even under trying circumstances. Prof. Ratna Naidu's scholarship has been a source of inspiration over the past several years.

I am grateful to the staff of the Indira Gandhi Memorial Library, University of Hyderabad for their help in aiding my research. I also wish to express my gratitude to the staff of the following libraries and institutions - Andhra Pradesh State Archives, Hyderabad, Osmania University Library, Hyderabad, Centre for Economic and Social Studies Library, Hyderabad, Andhra Pradesh Police Academy, Hyderabad, National Police Academy, Hyderabad, Jayakar Library, Pune, Gokhale Institute of Economics Library, Pune, Andhra University Library, Visakhapatnam, Ram Mohan Library, Vijayawada, Tagore Library, Vijayawada, Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, New Delhi, Ratan Tata Library, Delhi School of Economics, Delhi, Jawaharlal Nehru University Library, New Delhi, National Social Science Documentation Centre, ICSSR, New Delhi, Indian Institute of Public Administration Library, New Delhi, and the Institute of Economic Growth Library, New Delhi.

I thank the UGC for awarding me a fellowship and the authorities of the University of Hyderabad for giving me the opportunity to do research. I appreciate the help and cooperation of a large number of informants in Vijayawada and Hyderabad. In particular I would like to thank reporters working for the Renadu, Vijayawada, Mr. T. Ganapati Rao and the manager of the Pragati Book Depot for providing a number of contacts and clarifications and additional information on various aspects. The comrades at the Pragati Book Depot were very hospitable in allowing me to use their premises for a large number of discussions with key informants. K. Warashaiah was a mine of information regarding aspects of Vijayawada's recent past. I thank all of them.

I acknowledge the help extended by the staff of Vijayawada Municipal Corporation (especially Mr. Hanumayya) the Vijayawada, Guntur, Tenali Urban Development Authority, and the Overseas Development Authority, all in Vijayawada. Reporters and Editors of newspapers in Vijayawada and a host of other public and private citizens of the city made my stay a memorable one.

The staff of the office of the Department of Sociology offered administrative assistance during the period of research. My special thanks to my friend Muralikrishna with whom I had long discussions regarding the topic and who has helped me in the past in ways too numerous to mention.

I thank the staff of the Computer Centre University of Hyderabad, especially Mr. D.R.P. Gangaji, for help with data and word processing of the thesis.

I am extremely indebted to my parents and family members who have always given me encouragement and support in carrying out my work. My thanks to Swarnalatha for bearing with all the intractable problems generated by a husband working for his Ph.D thesis.
