ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The expression of gratitude, to me, is essential even if embarrassing. Embarrassing, because, one cannot write-off one’s debts by merely acknowledging them. But, keeping to the convention, one must begin this sacred act of thanksgiving.

First things first. I owe my biggest debts to my supervisor, Prof. Devendra Kaushik. Indeed, this work could not have seen light of the day but for his most kind cooperation. His complete confidence in me made the whole task a pleasant experience. With all sincerity, I acknowledge my debts to him.

Sharing gratitude to the family remains the most difficult part. But one must go on with it. So, on this occasion, I fondly remember love and support of my parents, uncles, brother Sarvesh, sisters Poonam and Neelam and brother-in-law Dr. Sanjay. Also, still back home, one would remember my friends Suneil and Manju, Anand and Abha and L.K. Jain.

Now, to friends in JNU. The people who made my stay in the campus arguably the best phase of my life. Fortunate enough to have a long list of friends, one cannot name all of them. But invaluable contribution towards this work came from Rajeev, Soumen, Shahid, Ravi Ranjan, Surya Bhan, Niraj, Nalin, Sanjay and Praveen.

Finally, a thanks is due to Mr. Avinesh Singh Bhati for his neat and efficient typing and to the library staff at JNU, IDSA and American Centre Library for their active assistance.

Date: 17/7/95
J.N.U. New Delhi, India

Devesh Tandon