Acknowledgement

This thesis has been completed under the guidance of Dr. (Mrs) Maithrayee Chaudhuri, Centre for the Study of Social Systems, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi. She has been a constant source of inspiration and instrumental in making me complete this thesis. I have immensely benefited during the course of my studentship under her. Words would fail to fully express my gratitude to her.

I should also acknowledge here the help given by Prof. J. S. Gandhi the Chairperson of Centre for the Study of Social Systems, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi.

I am greately indebted to my beloved teachers in Srilanka: Professor Nandasena Ratnapala and Senior Lecturer Mr. Tennyson Perera for their constant encouragement and scholarly guidance. I also want to thank Prof. K. N. O. Dharmadasa, Prof. Meegaskumbura, Dr. Kottagama, Dr. Padmalal De Silva, Dr. Nandadeva Wijesekara for their thought provoking ideas which inspired me throughout the course of this rigorous work and Mr. Edwin Ganihigama the Head of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the University of Sri Jayawarddenapura in Srilanka.

I would like to express my heartfelt gratefulness to Prof. at Delhi University Dr. (Mrs) Patricia Oberoi and Prof. Pal.

My friend R. Kumaran has been very supportive with his valuable advice on the theoretical consideration of this research and I take this opportunity to express my gratitude for his co-operation.

However, mere lexical gestures can not express one's feelings, especially sense of indebtedness and gratitude yet I will be failing in my duty, if I do not formally offer my heartfelt thanks to my husband Nemsiri Jayatilleke who gave me moral, emotional and academic support throughout this strenuous work.

My greatest thanks is to my research assistant Mr. Prasanna Dharmasena without whose help and encouragement this work would not have been possible.

I am grateful to the Librarians and the staff members at the Nehru Memorial Library at Tindur, New Delhi, Jawaharlal Nehru University Library, Ratan Tata Library at Delhi University, Sri Jayawarddenapura University Library, Museum Library and United Nation Organisation Library in Srilanka for allowing me to have an access to books and other valuable references.

The villagers of Dambana and Henanigala have provided me not only with data but warmth and affection. Specially with enormous gratitude I pay my respect to the late Ven. Kithalagama Seelaalkanara Thero who was assasinated by LTTE, provided me plenty of data and rendered all possible help during my field study. Many officials at various departments of Uva province who have desired to remain anonymous, data and ample support. I thank them all.
My special thanks are due to Upali Amarasinghe, Indika Liyange, M.G. Lalith Ananda, Nuwan Gunawarddena for their help during my writings.

I express my gratitude to Peter Van Wonterghem, Vinod Kuamr and Supriya Seth for meticulously proof reading the manuscript.

I have been encouraged by my affectionate mother who underwent all sort of sacrifice due to my education throughout her life. My utmost gratitude is to my mother for her constant encouragement, co-operation and being a source of inspiration.

I express my extreme gratitude to my Indian friends Smruti, Chubi, Gunnu, Tumter, Mahalakshmi, Anadish (Tutu), Shokath, Nileema, Seethamony, Mohideen and Srilankan friends Eranjani, Sarath, Anoja, Chandrika, Upul, Pearl, Apsara, Lasantha, Jayantha and Praneeth for their moral support throughout this research work. I should also acknowledge here support given by brothers Gamini Gamage, Bharatha Pathirana and Additional Secretary Upali Weerawarddena.

I am thankful to Mr. Talwar, Bharat, Sunita, Kashmir Singh, Deepak and the rest of office staff of my centre who have given all possible help at different stages during my academic work at Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi.

Prof. Shivaramaya and his family had been the continuous source of support in all respects our stay in Delhi. Their companionship gave us strength and encouragement to adjust at Vaishali in Delhi and have a feel of Indian hospitality.

Special thanks to Mr. S.K. Basumata who sat on the computer for hours together and painstakingly typed and designed this manuscript.

Last but not least, I must acknowledge the financial assistance I received from the Indian Council of Cultural Relations, New Delhi. Government of India had been very kind to award me SAARC Scholarship during the year 1993-98. Without this assistance it would have been difficult for me to carry out my research work.
