ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I acknowledge with a deep sense of gratitude the continuous help and encouragement that my supervisor Prof. Kapil Kapoor and co-supervisor Prof. G. V. Singh provided despite their hectic schedule. Without their able guidance and inspiration it would have been extremely difficult for the present research to complete. Prof. Kapoor’s various works related to semantic representation and theories as also his lively personality helped me at many points when I felt stuck up. Prof. Singh’s papers and articles and his drive to work hard helped me race through the completion of the thesis.

I am deeply grateful to Prof. H.S. Gill and Prof. H.C. Narang for their constant support and encouragement. I am also thankful to my teachers Dr. R.S. Gupta, Dr. Anvita Abbi and Dr. Vaishna Narang for initiating me in the discipline of Linguistics.

I am particularly indebted to the School of Computer and Systems Sciences and the computer facilities at the School of Languages for providing me the infrastructure necessary for carrying out the present work.

My special thanks are due to Dr. D. K. Lobiyal who has been instrumental in my initiation into the basics of computer science and is a person always ready to help. I must acknowledge all those lively discussions (mostly initiated by Dr. Lobiyal) in the AI lab, SC & SS which led to a broadening of the understanding of Natural Language Processing and Artificial Intelligence. In this context, I can not forget the active participation and enthusiasm shown by Paramjit, Seoum, Archana, Sharad, Sanjay, Pramod, Shanawas, Zahiruddin and Amitav.

I can not forget the affection showered on me and concern shown for my research by Mrs. Indu Singh and Mrs. Ranga Kapoor.

My deep acknowledgements for the emotional and moral support provided by my family members Dadi, Kakaji, Maa, Chachaji, Chachāji, Papa and Mummy. In this context, I particularly mention my brothers Gautam and Bhuvan, brother-in-law Nitin, sisters Meera, Amita, Putul, Soni, Runuk, Jhunuk, and sister-in-law Shalini.

Still, this work would not have been complete without consistent emotional and academic support by Ritu, my friend and wife. Her help in data collection, sampling, bibliography preparation and proof-reading was crucial.
