Inmeasurable appreciation and deepest gratitude for the support and encouragement are extended to the following persons who in the way or another have contributed in making this thesis possible.

To start with, I would like to acknowledge my supervisors Prof. M. S. Janaki and Prof. Nikhil Chakrabarti, who had been a constant source of inspiration; not only in physics domain but also in every aspects of life. Throughout my Ph.D tenure, they guided me with a lively spirit and had been tolerant in every possible aspects. Their impeccably sharp insight in the subject, conceptual perfection and the simple way of conveying them, have inspired me to give my best. Being enthusiastic and ebullient, they had always been a friend, philosopher and guide in the truest sense. It is their constant counseling and indomitable spirit, which has turned me into a person that I am today. Without them, their constant support and self belief, this thesis would not have been possible.

I would like to thank the present Director of Saha Institute of Nuclear Physics (SINP), Prof. Ajit Kumar Mohanty and the former directors Prof. Bikas K Chakrabarti and Prof. Milan Kumar Sanyal, for their support and for giving the opportunity to pursue my thesis works with all the required facilities.

I would like to thank Prof. Rabindranath Pal, Prof. A. N. Sekar Iyengar, Prof. Sujit Kumar Saha, Prof. Santwana Raychaudhuri and Mr. Shantanu Chowdhury (all from SINP) for their support and informative discussions. I would also like to thank Prof. Manoranjan Khan, Prof. Radhaballabh Bhar (both from Jadavpur University) and Prof. Samiran Ghosh (Calcutta University) for their fruitful discussions and encouragements.

All the Professors (specially Prof. Pijush Kanti Ghosh, Prof. Bikash Chandra Gupta, Prof. Somenath Chakraborty, Prof. Arani Chakraborty, Dr. Subhasish Roy, Dr. Sudipta Das) and Scientific staffs (specially Archana Biswas, Koushik Pal, Pranab Adhikary, Prabir Majhi, Chand Pal, Kishore Mondal) of Siksha Bhavana, Visva-Bharati, Shantiniketan deserve a lot of credit for this thesis as they have guided me to this far way in my career. The cooperative nature of all the mentioned persons and the peaceful environment which I got throughout my B.Sc and M.Sc years had helped me a lot in my journey towards research world.

It is an honor to pay a true respect to the three masters; Prof. Suren Ghosh, Prof. Bijay Kundu and Prof. Swapan Sarkar. These three person changed my life as a science student in my higher secondary schooling and have ignited the dreams inside me about higher studies.

A lot of friends and well wishers deserve a place in this acknowledgement column. To begin with, my heartiest regards to Samir and Sambit who had been my best buddies in school. There has been a special place in my heart for Samir, who have become a MBBS and presently pursuing his MD in Calcutta Medical College. It has been a worth to have a doctor friend right next to you. Starting from those school days to present, he has always been in my side in all situations. He picked up most of my phone calls and also tried to meet me in all possible way by extracting times from his busy schedules. No thanks would be as good as to give you Samir; having a fired like you is a gem for me. I would also like to appreciate Ritesh, Subrato, Anabil, Ashoke, Rashbihari, Subrata and Abdulla for being my best buddies during my B.Sc years. In the M.Sc days, I came across friends like Aminul, Debarun, Mahadev who are also very close to me. I would also like to thank Sk Asraf and Arup Ratan Mondal for being the best seniors to me.

Life at SINP was not so easy to say the least, but it has been a worth for the friends I had at this crucial juncture of life. Atanu, Rajani, Kalyanmoy, Tapas, Bithi had been very supportive during these PhD tenure and made my stay at the hostel entertaining and comfortable. I am fortunate enough to have a senior like Niladri Sarkar in the hostel premises and one cannot ask for a better friend than what you have been to me. I cannot thank Dr. Swapan Majhi and his wife Lina Saha enough for their love and care for me and treating me as a brother. I would also miss the happy moments which I spent during my Post-M.Sc days with my batch mates.

My heartiest thanks to Nidhi, Abhik, Amrita, Aritra, Kuntal, Sanjukta, Suwankar, Saswati, Biswajit, Rome, who had been exemplary juniors. I would also like to thank the seniors i.e. Sourav Kanti Jana, Ajanta Kundu, Debasish Mukherjee, Satyajit Seth, Najmul Haque, Saptaparni Ghosh who always guided me in the right directions.

It is my pleasure to acknowledge all my seniors i.e. Dr. Subir Biswas, Dr. Debabrata Banerjee, Dr. Chandan Maity, Anwesa Sarkar, friend Abhik and juniors i.e. Abhijit, Debajyoti, Mithun, Pankaj, Sabuj, Satyajit, Sayanee, Sourav, Subha, Yaswanth of Plasma Physics Division for their help, discussions and suggestions. I would like to mention here that Dr. Chandan Maity has influenced and inspired me the most with his sound knowledge, dignity and humble nature. I would also like to thank my Jadavpur University colleagues Dr. Manjistha Dutta, Ashish and Anirudha for their cooperation in my thesis related works. Alongside, on a serious note, I would like to thank divisional colleagues Dipankar Das, Monobir Chattopadhyay, Partha Sarathi Bhattacharya, Shubhasis Basu, Dulal Chatterjee and Ashok Kumar Ram for helping me academically, specially with the official documents related issues.

I would take this opportunity to thank four special persons i.e. Abhishek Sau, Maireyee Bhattacharya, Sudeshna Daschakraborty from Chemical Science Division and Debdatto Mookherjee from Biophysics and Structural Genomics Division of SINP. These people are very close to me and each one of them influenced my life greatly. Their support and care helped me to overcome various setbacks and to stay focused. I greatly value, respect their friendship and deeply appreciate their belief in me in the truest sense. I would also like to mention the name of Maheshvare Natesan, a summer trainee at SINP during 2015, who have become my sweetest sister and friend.

I would like to thank all the library personnel, security personnel, canteen staffs (VECC also), all other members of various groups and sections at SINP and the cook-staffs of MSA-2 hostel. I would also like to thank Prof. Sukalyan Chattopadhyay, Chairman of MSA-2, for his extended support regarding numerous hostel issues.

Lastly, I would like to thank my mother and father, the two souls who sacrificed everything to watch me grow and stood beside me in every situations. They just wanted the best for me and motivated me immensely to achieve greater goals in life. Their love and affection can never be repayed. During my Ph.D years (first time I left home for academic purpose) they were patient and didn't complain even if I stayed out of home for days, even months at a time. This thesis is as much theirs as it is mine.

Being a jovial kind of guy, I met a lot of people in my journey towards the compilation of this thesis and many of them have influenced me in this regard. I would like to express my deepest apologies for not individually acknowledging to those people here who directly or indirectly might have helped and encouraged me to pursue this thesis.
