ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My greatest single debt is to my guide, Dr. (Mrs.) Sushila Singhal for her scholarly guidance, constant encouragement and sincere cooperation to which this study owes its existence.

I express my gratitude to the Principles and teachers of schools from where the subjects were selected. My special thanks to the teachers of the deaf who helped me out with the interviews of deaf and for their own observations and opinions about the deaf. I am also indebted to the parents of the deaf for giving me their valuable time for interviews. The subjects of my study also deserve my thanks. The deaf subjects, who never let me feel unwanted, deserve a very special recognition. I was always greeted and welcome with broad smiles by them. We shared a special rapport where silence spoke volumes and multiplied my joys!

I am also thankful to the Librarians I.C.S.S.R., N.C.E.R.T., National Medical Library and Delhi University for letting me consult their libraries.

I cannot deny myself the pleasure of publicly thanking those who urged me on, in moments of "Work Paralysis", and kept on boosting my sagging morale.
