ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

A research endeavor is constantly an artifact of solidarity and in this milieu the claim to be the exclusive original 'author' does not signify more than a 'signatory' status. A true student and researcher of our academic sanctum learns more of his intellectual limitations and in this process becomes more humble. But this is the key, as the almighty have stated, to re-cognition of the real self. It must have been the fruits of some unseen merits of actions, and the blessings of my parents and teachers that inspired me to become a student of an ocean-like Medical Sociology.

Although 'to a deep sense of reverence no amount of words can express' still, I take this opportunity to put on record my most sincere sense of reverence and gratitude to my teacher and research guide Dr. Rama V. Baru. The study would never have been achieved to its present shape without the gracious supervision and personal encouragement of Dr. Rama V. Baru. She has been extremely generous for allowing me to provide fruitful guidance in this regard. With her remarkable insights and observations, she nurtured in me an interest and honour for the intellectual traditions of India. It would be an ever-illuminating experience for all those who have got the opportunity to attend her lectures, as a student or a researcher. My last couple of years of association with her have had a profound impact upon me. I recollect the exciting years of instruction, recalling the ever so many important insights that came to her frequently and spontaneously, which she tested and retested in the most meticulous fashion. From every practical point of view, she has been the main supporter of this work. She has seen it grow from its inception, as teacher, to its conclusion. She has added new dimensions to my work, helping me to view the problem of urban solid waste as an interdisciplinary phenomenon. As we feel committed to learn more, take forward and disseminate the amount of knowledge contained in our academic way of life, so I believe her constant guidance, able supervision, exacting standard of scholarship and compassionate encouragement will be stay with me through the passage of time.

I take this opportunity to express my sincere regards to the teachers of Centre of Social Medicine and Community Health, who have been a source of constant encouragement and intellectual support for me. I think myself extremely fortunate to be a student of the exemplary teachers at the Centre. In this regard, I wish to recall and deeply acknowledge the guidance and insightful observations of my former supervisor Prof. Ghanshyam Shah, who took deep interest and utmost care while this research was taking shape. I consider myself greatly privileged that I could get an opportunity to study under him. During my course-work and M. Phil. research, he had always been a great support behind expounding new ideas, interpretations and meaning.
My grateful thanks and gratitude are due to Prof. Arun P. Bali, Director ICSSR; Prof. L.S. Bhat, National Fellow, ICSSR; Prof. C. Naganna, Bangalore University; Prof. K.R. Nayar, JNU; Prof. Anand Kumar, JNU; Dr. Rajib Das Gupta, JNU; Dr. Tandavamurthy, Health Officer (South Zone, BCC, Bangalore); Dr. B.C. Verappa, Public Relation Officer, BCC; and Mrs. Almitra. H. Patel, waste management specialist; who had evinced keen interest and promised considerable help in this work. I also owe deep sense of gratitude to Dr. Esha Shah, Dr. H.S. Shivaprakash, Prof. Mohan Rao, Prof. Imrana Qadir, Dr. Ritu Priya, Dr. Sanghamittra Acharya, Dr. Alpana Sagar, Dr. Sunita Reddy, Prof. Anil Mudbidri, Prof. Somashekararappa, Dr. Iranna Mulagund, Shivanand Sirsikar, Dr. Lakhan Singh, and Govindraj Hegde for their proffered help and valuable suggestions throughout my research.

I would be failing in my obligation if I do not thank the Indian Council of Social Sciences Research, Ministry of Human Resource and Development, Government of India, for having awarded me a Doctoral Fellowship, which had enabled me to commence the work. I would like to extend my sincere thanks to Mrs. Revathy Vishwanath, Research Assistant, ICSSR, who took utmost care during the whole tenure of ICSSR Fellowship.

With great complacency, I place on record the cooperation I have received from various people and institutions. I express my gratitude to all the concerned authorities of the following libraries, which have been utilised for consultation. They are Central Library, JNU, CSMCH

Library, Centre for Science and Environment (CSE) Library, Voluntary Health Association of India (VHAI) Library, ISEC Library, Teen Murthy Library, Bangalore University Library, HUDCO Library, ICSSR Library, and ILI Library, etc.

I am extremely grateful to all the interviewees of Chamarajpet and Rajajinagar, Bangalore for patiently responding to my interview-schedule and sparing their valuable time for discussions, during my field-work. I also wish to thank all the staff and workers of both Bangalore City Corporation as well as private organisations for their cooperation. I also wish to thank the municipal councillors and members of residents' associations in Bangalore for their kind help and cooperation during the field-work.

No student of CSMCH will ever forget the cooperation he/she might have received from the non-teaching staff of our Centre (CSMCH/ SSS/ JNU). My special thanks are due to Mrs. M.D. Rastogi, Mrs. Krishna Bhatia, Dharamraj, Mrs. Malavika, Dinesh, and Brahm Prakash for their kind cooperation throughout my stay in the Centre as a M. Phil./Ph. D. student.

I wish to thank Sri Sanjay Kumar, for taking much strain while editing my thesis and for his enthusiastic comments. In spite of his busy schedule, he found time for me and I am also thankful to his colleagues for their help.

My special appreciation goes to friends, whose contribution to this research work can be realised from its conceptual framework to the concrete form. I fondly recall Dr. Basavaraj Bagewadi, Niranjan Sarangi, M. Ganapathy, Shivanand Bajantri, Aurobinda Mahapatra, B.S. Vasant kumar, Manohar Udachanchi, Debendra Biswal, V.B. Prabhakar, Bishwanath, Dr. D.R. Doni, Leeladhar Bhandari, Dr. M.S. Shivakumar and Azad Singh Kalher for their immense co-operation and virtues they provided through their actions during my Ph. D. research.

I wish to express my deep appreciation and thankfulness to my brother and close friend Dr. M.S. Shivaswamy. He has taken every care and has provided utmost support whenever needed, throughout my student career. I shall always remain grateful to him for his thoughtfulness that sprinkled an impetus to my research work.

Mr. Prakash Desai, Ph. D. scholar, School of International Studies, JNU has always been like a ready source of reference to me. I deeply acknowledge his enthusiastic support for my Ph. D. research work. I am fortunate to have friend and well-wisher like him. He is a wonderful scholar with a remarkable conceptual clarity. As a true friend I owe my thanks to him and I wish to much more learn from him.

With great pleasure, I place on record the support I have received from my teachers Sri. B.S. Malwad, Chief Librarian, S.K. Arts & H.S.K. Science Institute, Hubli and Sri. Guru Mattur, Dy. S.P., Karnataka. I must express my gratitude to them for their constant inspiration and valuable guidance and suggestions throughout my student career.
My special thanks to Susanta Jena, Panchanan Bhoi, Umakant Nayak, Shambit Rath, Prakash Jha, G. Santosh, Hemalatha, Hanumanth, Baba Kotabagi, Sridhar Rao, Dr. Shankar Udachanchi, Dattatreya Ganji, Narahari Babu, Ramesh Majjigudda, Jinendra, Sharanappa Talwar, B. Sridhar, Vivek Dube, Suresh, Prashant Balwar, Sarveshvaran, Preetam, Joseph Kuba, Nara, Amar Prushty, Uday Kumar, Sanjiv Kubakaddi, Prashant Joshi, Umesh Hublikar, Ravi Verma, Balu, Dr. Shylaja, Dr. Shridhar, Shankar Patil, Basavaraj Nagoor, Vijay Mattikatti, Shivamurthy, and many more whose logistic support was quite resourceful in the culmination of this study. I am fortunate to have friends and well-wishers like them.

On this auspicious moment, I seek the blessings of my parents and elders in my family. Without their exemplary patience and encouragement, completing Ph. D. would have remained only a daydream. At the culmination of a phase of academic journey, I bow to the feet of my revered father and mother. My heart is filled with submission and indebtedness. With all humiliation and pride, I dedicate this work to my father and mother.
