I feel highly indebted to many persons who have helped me in the conduct and successful completion of this study. I am unable to acknowledge every one by name in this short preface. However, I will be failing in my duty if I do not mention at least a few of them who remained as catalysts behind me to prepare this report.

First and foremost, I express my deep sense of gratitude to my esteemed guide Dr. G.S. Kamat, Professor, Vaikunth Mehta National Institute of Cooperative Management, Pune, who inspired, guided and encouraged me through out this research and enabled me to have the grasp of the subject proper. I remain highly indebted to him for having learnt the art of articulating myself in the thesis. I received valuable assistance and guidance from Dr. A.U. Shaikh (IAS Retd.) the then Director, Vaikunth Mehta National Institute of Cooperative Management, Pune in completing this thesis and I am thankful to him.

I gratefully record my indebtedness to my colleagues in the Vaikunth Mehta National Institute of Cooperative Management faculty, especially to Prof. M.V. Namjoshi,
Prof. S.N. Choudhry, Prof. K.V. Nadkarni, Shri K.K. Taimni, Shri M.K. Datar, and Dr. S.P. Seetharaman, Professor, Indian Institute of Management, Ahmedabad and Thiru C. Dinesh, Principal, Cooperative Training College, Madras who have readily expressed their views and suggestions whenever I approached them.

My thanks are due to Thiru A.K. Kandasamy Sah, Assistant Professor of English, Pachayappa's College, Madras for providing constructive and valuable suggestions for presenting the subject in precise form.

My hearty thanks are due in no small measure to all those organisations (the Dept. of Industries & Commerce, Dept. of Handlooms & Textiles and Khadi and Village Industries Board, Tamil Nadu) and all the industrial Cooperative societies who have extended their unstinted cooperation by supplying valuable information whenever I called on them. My immense thanks are due to Thiru. S. Somasundaram, Asst. Director, Dept. of Industries & Commerce for his help in updating my knowledge. I express my thanks to Mr. T.R. Govindaraman & Mr. K.P.N. Nambiar for getting the script ready for submission.

Last but not the least I am very much obliged to my wife and kids (Uma & Nath) without whose patience and cooperation it would not have been possible for me to complete this work expeditiously.
