ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First, I thank God, the Almighty who enabled me to achieve all goals. Goals and objectives are often achieved though sharing, dependence and assistance of human being. It is therefore, a deep sense of appreciation that I acknowledge the following persons.

I gratefully acknowledge the assistance of all who were instrumental in completion of this work. First and foremost, I express sincere gratitude to my supervisor Dr. R. Venkataraman, Associate Professor of Chemistry, PG and Research Centre, Sri Paramakalyani college, Alwarkurichi. His attitude to work and to be a human being made very deep impression on me. I am indebted to him for his expert advice and guidance. Under his direction, my special knowledge, technical experience and the way of scientific thinking have improved very much. He helps me not only in my doctoral study but also in other important aspects of my life.

I would like to thank Syngene International Ltd, subsidiary of Biocon Ltd, Bangalore for providing No Objection Certificate to use Chemistry Lab of international standard for the effective completion of my research work.

I would like to thank Mr. N. Chidambaram, Assistant Professor, Department of Pharmacology, KM College of Pharmacy, Uthangudi, Madurai for his help anti-oxidant study discussed in the thesis.

I would also like to thank Suguna Poultry Farm Ltd, Coimbatore especially Mr. Sundararajan, Joint Managing Director and Dr. Jagadeesh, Deputy General Manager, Health and Nutrition for their valuable suggestions and support.
I sincerely thank Dr. A. J. A. Ranjit Singh Professor and Head, Department of Advanced Zoology and Animal Biotechnology and Mr. I. Joseph, Research scholar, Sri Paramakalyani college, Alwarkurichi, for their practical help, many useful ideas, and many thought-provoking discussions in the field of biology.

I thank my parents, wife Mrs. Muthumari and my son Avaneesh my loudest cheerleader and best distraction.

Finally, I acknowledge various digital resources on web for their help during my literature survey.

B.SELVAKUMAR