Acknowledgement

Doctoral thesis is if considered a major academic achievement of studentship it also signifies the inception of many more impending academic challenges. Such an important work of my life would have been impossible unless so many other people had not become a part of it, in visible as well as invisible forms. No words are sufficient enough to express my sincere gratitude to my supervisor, Professor P.M. Kulkarni, who had been the ultimate mentor. His constant encouragement acted as a driving force for me and helped me to develop an interest for the subject. Moreover, his immense patience to bear with all my shortcomings and enthusiastically correcting me whenever I went wrong has been of great help. His critical comments and suggestions during this period were also very helpful for the research. I am really thankful to him for such a friendly and helpful approach, which not only guided my research but also instilled confidence in me in the field of demography.

I would like to thank all other faculty members of CSRD, especially to Professor M.D. Vemuri for his critical and constructive comments on the topic of the research. I would also like to extend my regards to all other non-teaching staff of CSRD.

I would like to extend my sincere thanks to Lopamudra and Ramesh of CSRD for their various contributions to my research. I would also like to thank Arun da, Ravi, Bhaswati di, Jaya, Manu di, Chinmoyee di and Suraj ji of CSD. I am also thankful to Subrato da for his support.

Though last yet most important, I am immensely grateful to my parents, my wife and my in-laws, and other relatives and friends, whose invaluable support and encouragement throughout has helped me to complete this work. Their sacrifices and well wishes have provided strength at the most critical point of my life and it is because of them that I have reached this level.
