BIBLIOGRAPHY

Amor Miras, Julio (1979). Defectos en el marco de muestreo (Defects in the Sampling frame work) estadística espanola, Vol.21, pp.27-49.

Chapman D.G. (1952). Inverse, multiple and sequential sample censuses. Biometrika, 8, 286-288.

parameters in sampling without replacement. Survey Methodology, 10, 2, 181-185.

the Kinsey report on sexual behaviour in the human male. (Washington, 1954)

J.A.S.A., 37, 63-68.

Corsa, L. (Jr) (1964). The sample survey in a national population Crosetti, A.H. and Schmirt, R.C. (1956). Method of estimating the intercensal population of countries. J.A.S.A. 51, 387-590.

Das Gupta, F. (1964). On the estimation of total number of units and of the possibilities of detecting an event from information supplied by different agencies. Bulletin of Calcutta Statistical Association, 13, 89-99

Dalenius, T. (1957). Sampling in Sweden—Contribution to the Methods and Theories of Sample Survey & Practice (Stockholm, 1957).

Deming, E.W. and Glasser, G.J. (1959). On the problem of matching lists

Singh, Y.P. (1951). Practical problems in sampling for social and demographic enquiries in undeveloped countries. Population Studies, 3, 170-191.

and the consequences for their use in sampling. Bull

using. Inverse SRSWR. Tech Report Indian statistical Institute, Stat-Math. Calcutta. Published in the proceedings of II International Aligarh Conference (1993).

stratification and inverse sampling. Probability and Statistics. 234-246.

U.S. Bureau of Census (1960a). The post enumeration surveys 1950, Bureau of Census, Technical paper No. - 4 (Washington D.C.).

U.S. Bureau of Census (1960b). New series for housing starts January 1959 - April 1960. Construction reports, Housing starts

U.S. Bureau of Census (1962). Annual survey of Manufactures 1959 and xi