ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I wish to thank my Supervisor, Prof. H. C. Narang for his unstinted support. It is he who introduced me to African literature during my Masters and it is thanks to him that my interest in the subject has grown over the years. But for your support, Sir, this thesis would never have seen the light of day.

I take this opportunity to thank my Professors at Jawaharlal Nehru University and Delhi University. This is where I was introduced to ideology, research and a quest for gaining further knowledge. I particularly thank Prof. Meenakshi Mukherjee, Prof. G.J.V. Prasad, Prof. Santosh Sareen, Prof. Vaishna Narang, Prof. S Panja, Prof. Malashree Lal and Prof. Shirshendu Chakravarty for their constant words of encouragement which helped me in my endeavours.

My sincere gratitude to Rawat ji for his constant support and his pleasing demeanor.

My immense gratitude to Bharati College and the University of Delhi for granting me three years of academic leave. A huge thank you to my colleagues for their constant support and their tips on balancing career with family.

I wish to acknowledge BCL and Charles Wallace for funding my trip to London which enabled me to access the library at SOAS which was very useful for my research. I also acknowledge ICCR for funding my trip to attend the African Literary Association Conference. It enabled me to travel to Africa and I was honored to meet luminaries like Prof. Ngugi Wa Thiong’o, Lewis Nkossi and other seminal African authors.

I would like to thank my friends Joseph, Sarah, Sefi, Esther, Chimalum and Damian for getting me books and sharing their thoughts with me.

I wish to thank my family for providing me with the support and letting me have the required space to work in. I particularly wish to thank Dadu who turns 100 this year for being my source of inspiration. Dadu, this is for you...
Last but not the least, I wish to thank my dear friend, Suruchi, my pillar of strength who has stood by me rock solid. But for her support and encouragement this thesis would never have been written. Thank you Suchi for walking with me and for calling this “our PhD”- it means everything to me.
