CONTENTS

Acknowledgement i

Chapter 1. Introduction: Dilemma of Being a New Woman 1
1. Traditional Western concepts of Women 6
2. Traditional Korean concepts of Women 16
3. Being a New Woman 24

Chapter 2. Diverse Religions and Thoughts: Their Influence on Feminist Perspectives 34
1. Physiology of Women 34
2. Misogyny in Philosophy and Religion 40
3. Christianity and Suppression of Women 44
4. Status of Women in Buddhism 56
5. Korean Confucianism and Repression of Women 63

Chapter 3. Sylvia Plath 75
1. Defining Neurosis 76
2. Feminist Perspectives on Social Conflict 78
   i) Sense of Competence 82
   ii) Challenging Normality 86
3. Death as an Outlet in Sylvia Plath’s Death poems 89
4. The Bell Jar; Struggling to Be a New Woman 108
5. Viciousness of Domesticity in Sylvia Plath’s Poems
   i) Two Sides of Motherhood 125
   ii) Sylvia Plath’s Fear of Pregnancy and Motherhood 127
   iii) Sylvia Plath’s Anxiety of marriage 137

Chapter 4. Wanseo Park
1. Who is Wanseo Park? 153
2. Defining Hysteria 156
3. Repression of Desires: Female Sexuality 163
4. Trational Korean Views of Women 173
5. My Last Possession: Lack of Identity 176
6. The Naked Tree: Lingering Confucian Ideology 181
7. Self-abnegation and Self-punishment 190
   i) Butterfly of Illusion: Looking for Self-journey 190
   ii) Three Days in That Autumn; Guilt and Alienation 195
8. Repression of Desires 200
   i) Repression in Identical Apartments 200
   ii) Claustrophobia in 210

   Thus Ended My Days of Watch Over the House

Chapter 5. Conclusion; Quest for survival 220
Bibliography 231