ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Reaching at the stage of completing a doctoral degree has been a challenge and I have been challenging myself for such a pious goal of my life. I wish to acknowledge the support and encouragement of teachers, family and friends and all the well-wishers to make this journey successful.

First and foremost, I express my sincere and deep sense of gratitude to my guide, Professor Nandini Manjrekar, who supervised my work in nitty-gritty manner and always tried to make sure that I should not wear ‘planning and policy thinking cap’. I am blessed to have a guide like you, not only because your great expertise and experience was godsend for me, but for also you kept me motivating and hold on to the hope of staying on track and reaching the finishing line. You inspired me like most of the best advisors have the best interest of their students at heart. The use of all communication channel specially Skype and Whatsapp always gave me a feeling as I am in the campus of TISS.

I would like to convey my heartfelt thanks to my doctoral advisory committee members Professor Ritambhara Hebbar, School of Development Studies and Dr. Sthabir Khora, Associate Professor, School of Education, TISS for their critical input and valuable time. I also thankful to Professor Disha Nawani and Dr. Suresh Madhvan for their comments during proposal and synopsis presentation, which was very helpful in refining the dissertation. I am happy to have you all on my committee and a great combo indeed.

I am also sincerely thankful to Prof. Surinder Jaiswal for her immense support through a good and supportive DSO office. I am even thankful to Ms. Susheela, Mr. Anil, Ms. Purnima, Mr. Pravin and Ms. Pravin, who never gave me a feeling that I am away from the campus. My experience says that our DSO is one of the best doctoral supporting institution in the country.

I am grateful to many of my teachers and well-wishers who always asked me to finish early whenever they meet as they have the faith on me that I am a fast runner in this field. I thank Professor J.B.G. Tilak, Professor K. Sujatha, Professor Sudesh Mukhopadhyaya, Professor Avinash Kumar Singh, Professor S.C. Panda, Professor N.K. Dash, Dr. Sanjay Mishra, Dr. Jagannath Ambaguidia, Dr. R.C. Sharma, Professor Rita Ray, Professor. Bijay Kumar Behera, Dr. Rabindra Garada, Subash sir and also my school teachers for their constant faith on me. Without your invaluable support and motivation, I would never have had the courage to come to this stage. I must pay a special thanks to Dr. Rajyalaxmi for her constant support and motivation during the process of writing, editing and completing the thesis.

I wish to acknowledge the encouragement of Professor Chandra Bhusan Sharma, Dr. S.S. Jena, Dr. Kuldeep Agarwal, who supported in this academic endeavour even my office always have busy professional commitment towards the nation. They always gave me the freedom to work in my own space and had faith on me.

I also acknowledge the assistance given by library of Tata Institute of Social Sciences, Mumbai, National University of Educational Planning and Administration(NUEPA), New Delhi and National Institute of Open Schooling(NIOS).

I must acknowledge Dr. Mahendra Mishra, former State Co-ordinator, Tribal Education, OPEPA, Odisha and Durga for their insightful suggestion and their support in accessing to the field site. I am also indebted to the functionaries of ‘Save the children’ and its partner agency, ‘People’s Cultural Centre(PECUC)’: Ranjan Mohanty, Satya sir, Pintu, Surendra, Santosh and Nabaghan, who have given me a homely atmosphere and made my difficulties very easy at the field site.

I am very grateful to the parents, children, teachers and other community members at the field site. Although I cannot thank the participants by name in order to protect their confidentiality, I greatly appreciate their help and support. Without their participation, this dissertation would not be possible.

It was a good opportunity to benefit from the expertise of Dr. Kuldeep Agarwal, Dr. Rajyalaxmi, Pranta bhai, Pratyasha didi and Akshaya Bhaina for proof reading and providing the inputs for a good thesis. I must acknowledge the support of all my friends and well-wishers, Akhaya, Aditya, Anish, Archana, Bapi, Bidu, Bijayshree, Chichuan, Elinadi, Jayakrushna, Jyoti, Lalit Bhai, Likun, Ketaki, Manoj Bhai, Pankaj, Pinak, Papu, Sambhu, Shakti, Kamal Swaroop sir, Pradeep, Prassanna, Sarat, Suchi, Satya, Uttam, Vishal, Dutta, Nitin, Jaya Prakash, Vicky and Vimal, whose friendship and humour have been a consistent source of joy throughout this process. Family and friends like Mr and Mrs. Ram Narayan Meena, Mr. and Mrs. Shakti Ranjan Patra, Rana family, Elina didi and Pratysha didi need special mention. I thank Uttam and Satya for adding a flavour of humour, good companion at breakfast, lunch and dinner table and made me feel comfortable in my last phase of my stay at TISS.
I am offering this upcoming achievement under the glorious feet of the Lord of the universe, Lord Jagannath and Maa Tarini, the deity of my study area, whose unseen hands and blessings I have felt ever. I got everything a good family, a good teacher and a good friend circle to complete my doctoral thesis.

My family has always been outstanding inspiration to me. I would like to express my deep sentiments, love and affection towards my Parents and mother-in-law for their unfailing faith, support and love, which was the motivation for me to complete the task in time. I am really thankful to the God for giving a firm and supportive father whose constant prayer and blessings made me to grab my destination in every phase of life. My mother is my pillar of support and encouragement. I am very indebted to her also for her positive attitude towards the challenging task at hand and towards life in general. ‘Mun kebela janichi mo pain tora kete nida haji jaichhi’ (I know you have spent many sleepless nights for me) and please be sure that ‘you have your own rightful place in my life and that is always safe’.

I thank all my sisters, my sister-in-laws, my brothers, brother-in-laws for believing in me and giving constant advice to look towards health matters as well as to excel in academic life. I missed all the small kids of my family: Nanu, Likuni, Jeet, Amit, Khusi, Lusi, Sabimaa (great grand maa), Badabou in these years.

Finally, I am happy to convey that God has given me ‘Bijaylaxmi’ a gracious gift as my better-half, companion, friend, a good proof reader. I understand your sacrifice in terms of time, dream, desire, pleasure and happiness in these 18 months because I started my chapters writing just after you came into my life. I end up with saying that ‘let me try to play your role and now, you focus on your PhD’. At the end, I salute all women and their support and sacrifice in various ways to make a man’s life and in my life. They are truly lucky for me. I am really blessed to have all lady teacher supervisors from Master’s degree till PhD including some of them guided me informally.
