ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Dieu Merci! (Thank God), the half battle is won. However, journey in concluding this thesis had not been facile. The most sufferer was my precious gem, my daughter, Pamleen, who is 2010 born, while I was amidst my work. Nevertheless, she had been a silent support to me throughout my work and I would remain indebted to her throughout my life for her precious smile while I was working.

At this moment of accomplishment, I pay respect to my esteemed, honoured and respected guide, Dr. D.N. Jauhar. I feel short of words while expressing my profoundest gratitude for his constant support, guidance, and encouragement, even at odd times while he was amidst busy schedules. His valuable words, constructive criticism, and discussions were always a source of learning. He being a perfectionist has taught me to be one. He has taught me to love the work one undertakes to do. Despite time constraints, he has never withheld me, and has always been keen to give valuable suggestions after reviewing my work numerous times. His unflinching courage and conviction always inspires me to do lot more. His trust in me is in a way of compliment and I am indebted that he chooses me to be his student and provided me with guidance for the accomplishment of present work.

It also gives me immense pleasure in acknowledging the support and help extended by Dr. Pandu, Assistant Director, Forensic Science Laboratory, Madhupan at Karnal who not only showed me in detail the whole process involved in DNA Profiling but also enlightened me about the shortcomings in sample collection, preservation, and handling that can virtually put the valuable evidence to trial. A special thanks also deserves to be extended to Dr. Neelam Arya, field forensic expert.

I also cannot find words to express my gratitude to Late Dr. Atul Marya, the then Chief Judicial Magistrate, Panchkula, Haryana, for his valuable guidance on the matters of law. He has untimely left for heavenly abode but his guidance is still fresh in my mind.

I also extend my gratitude to Sh. Anubhav Sharma, CJM, Chandigarh who showed me the right direction whenever I faulted and helped me in formulating my questionnaire for empirical study. He posed confidence in me at times when I felt turmoil and rendered every possible help he could in this herculean task despite his busy schedule.

I would remain indebted to all my staff at Karnal, Ratia and Panipat district courts who had provided me the text books and other necessary infrastructure from various sources. I am greatly indebted for the literature and books provided by main library, Punjab university; library of law department, library central forensic lab, Chandigarh, library Anthropology department, Chandigarh; Forensic Science Laboratory, Madhuban at Karnal and library, Dyal Singh College, Karnal. I also thank Mr. Sachin Sethi, Advocate, Tohana district courts for their time and valuable guidance. Also, the work would not have been possible without valuable assistance from Dr. Mahinder, Librarian, Department of Laws, P.U., Chandigarh; Mr. Munish, Department of Laws, P.U., Chandigarh and Madam Neelu, Department of Laws, P.U., Chandigarh. Lastly, not to forget my special thanks to my PSO, Shiv kumar and my driver, Birbal for their day and night hard work as per my requests and my cook, Joginder.

I owe my deepest gratitude to my loving brother Advocate Preetpal Singh, Standing Counsel, U.T., Chandigarh who had been a source of confidence and encouragement from the time even when I had not even started with my work. His science background with deep understanding in Biochemistry and Genetics has helped me to understand science terminology being a law student.

Last but not the least, the work would not have been possible without the support of my mentor, my progenitor, my source of positive energy, my mother Smt. Harcharan Kaur, caring, understanding, and my better-half Advocate Mr. Yadvinder Pal who had offered me support mentally, emotionally and physically in accomplishing this dream of mine and my Bhabi, Gagandeep Kaur. Last but not the least; I bow in front of the ALMIGHTY for bestowing His blessings upon me by offering me good health, vigor, and wisdom for accomplishment of the research work.
