ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is a pleasure to thank the all people directly or indirectly helpful in making this thesis possible.

First, I express my gratitude to the almighty for his blessings.

I would like to thank my supervisor, Dr. Krishna Asawa, for all of her help, guidance, and support. The quality of this work would not have been nearly as high without all of her thoughtful and well-appreciated advice.

There are numerous experts who enlightened me while I was wandering around in the dark, sometimes by pointing out directions, sometimes by asking questions, making comments, and by giving a suggestive hand. I would like to thank Dr. S. K. Srivastava, Ministry of Communication & IT India; Ex Prof. B. D. Sharma University of Delhi; Prof. R.K. Sharma, IIT Delhi; Dr. S. Sanadhya, IIIT Delhi and Prof. P.K. Verma, University of Oklahoma, U.S.A. for sharing their expertise with me.

I greatly acknowledge my doctoral programme monitoring and advising committee members Prof. Krishna Gopal, Prof. A.B. Bhattacharya, Prof. Sanjay Goel, Prof. K. Kant and Dr. Satish Chandra for their critical advice, valuable comments and intriguing questions.

It is a pleasure to thank the Chancellor Dr. Y. Medury, the Vice Chancellor Prof. S.C. Saxena, and the Director Prof. H.O. Gupta for their patronization and encouragement towards research persuasion.

I would like to acknowledge here encouraging and very insightful comments provided by the thesis examiners Prof. Indranil Sen Gupta, IIT Kharagpur, India and Prof. Phan Cong Vinh, NTT University, Vietnam.

Many thanks to my dear fellow research colleagues for their invaluable assistance whenever I needed. I owe my many thanks to CSE Department, Learning resource center, and Registry for providing me the required resources to pursue this research work.

I cannot forget friends who went through hard times together, cheered me on, and celebrated each accomplishment: Jayant Daporkar, Aditi Srivastava, Kuldeep Mishra, Sourabhb Pundir, Shikha Sharma, Gajendra Singh, Prateek Varshney, Shikha Maheshwari, Sujata Basu, Dinesh Yadav, Upendra Dubey, Ujjwal Kumar, Rajkumar Verma, and Ankita Pandey.
With deep gratitude I acknowledge here the role of my parents, Shri Mahendra Tiwari and Smt. Kusum Tiwari. Their love, care and the example of wisdom and integrity gave me a solid foundation to build my life on. I love them so much, and I would not have made it this far without them. I thank for heart-warming kindness and encouragement from the family of my brother: Bhuvan Tiwari, Arti Tiwari, and Agnay Tiwari. The constant love and support of my sister, Kanupriya Tiwari is sincerely acknowledged.

I would also like to express gratitude to my family in-law: Dr. Ram Mohan Dubey, Smt. Usha Dubey, Jaina Dubey, Aman Dubey and Anubha Dubey for their unfailing emotional support.

Lastly, and most importantly, I want to thank my wonderful wife Jaira Tiwari, who has supported me during critical time in every possible way and my son Apratim Tiwari, his happy mood always inspired me to move forward.
