Prof. J.K. Pundir, with his dogged pursuits in sociological studies and known commitment to the cause of the underprivileged was, no doubt, the appropriate guide the researcher could have in studying a topic relating to the ultimate violation of girl children. With his regular guidance, advice and stimulating discussions, the research work moved on a fast track. His in-depth understanding of the sociological theory and practice has been of tremendous benefit in orienting the study in the proper direction.

Several esteemed colleagues, whose names cannot be listed out for want of space, have immensely contributed to the consummation of the study. Some of them need special mention. Dr.B.S. Nagi, Ms.Anjali Gokarn, Ms.Vaishali, Ms. Usha, Ms.Juhi Roy, Ms.Suman Singh, Mr.Joshy Jose, Mr.Habib, Ms.Hasina, Mr. Francis, Mr. Sunil Menon, Mr.P. Raviendran, Mr.Sita Ram Meena, Mr. Vijayaraghavan and Mr.K.G.Johnkutty have helped me, in several ways, to complete the research process in time.

Ms.B.Bhamathi, my gender guru and life partner, gave me deep insight into the violations against women and girl children by leading discussions and orienting thoughts beyond the known realm of crime and criminals. Mrs.Devaki Amma, my mother, deserves pride of place for sowing seeds of child sensitivity and gender equality in me, even as early as my childhood days. Ms.Sangma and Mr.Shreyas, by their timely and spirited appreciation and promotion of the commitment of their father, endeared and inspired me to steadfastly move ahead.

I bow before all those child victims of rape and their well-wishers for their esteemed cooperation in allowing me to interview them. My apologies to each one of them, if the processes in this study, viz. interview and discussions, have inconvenienced or disturbed them, even though all efforts were made, to the best possible extent, to see that their rights were not violated in any manner and that they were not harmed any further.
