ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is a delight to think of all those who helped me in this academic endeavour.

My journey in science and technology studies started at the initiation of Prof E Haribabu. When I was looking for pegs to hold on, he gave me rare insights into this branch of knowledge and directed me in my academic pursuit. Through out the study, he was earnest enough to put me in right mode of conceptualisation. Without his committed guidance this thesis would not have been shaped well.

Aunty (Mrs E Haribabu) always gave me emotional support needed very much during the unending soujourn.

Prof Ratna Naidu helped me right from the date of admission to this day in putting me on the right track of academics. Her support and encouragement at a crucial stage of career moulding gave me the right direction to pursue.

P V S Kumar at NISTADS was the one who first educated me on actor-network perspective which had become the backbone of this thesis. His motivation showed some light and helped me in clinging on to the original topic, which otherwise would not have been possible.

If there were any body who were equally involved in my work along with me, they were my parents and my brother. They were my source of inspiration to carry on even in adversity.

Nagalakshmi and Mohan were the greatest pals of mine without whom this thesis would not have taken its shape. They both swam along with me in the academic deluge and brought me out through discussions. Janardhan rejuvenated my spirit whenever needed and always listened to my arguments with interest.

Dr Rethinam (ICAR), Dr Subba Rao (DBT), Mr Satyanarayana (ADH, Dept of Horticulture, Eluru), Hima Bindu and Subba Rao (H.O.s, Dept of Horticulture) and all my loving respondents are the contributors to this thesis in providing the primary and secondary data. The experience with my respondents is a long cherished memory for their love and affection.
Kiran, Sashank, Murali and Kiran gave me software support which is indispensable for the completion of the thesis. They always came in handy when the coast was feebly visible.

My friends Kamesh, Usha, Rajani, Uma, Sanjeev and Syam were always concerned about my work and gave me a helping hand whenever needed.

The faculty members and the non-teaching staff of the department of sociology always made me feel at home with their kind cooperation. Sai, Suryanarayana, Madhu and Tirupathaiah are my friends in the department who make me feel nostalgic about the university.

The library staff of HCU library, CESS, ASRC and NISTADS helped me in getting the material and thus grow up in the subject.

Lastly I would like to thank the UGC for providing me financial assistance to carry this study.
