CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION 1-5

CHAPTER I: GRAMMAR OF FORMAL LANGUAGE 6-34

1. Frege’s Philosophical Logic
2. Carnap, Formal Language and Ontology
3. Logical Atomism of Russell

CHAPTER II: GRAMMAR OF NATURAL LANGUAGE 35-80

1. Quine and Ontological Relativity
2. Logical Grammar in Wittgenstein’s Philosophy
3. Strawson: Ontology of Particulars and Descriptive Metaphysics

CHAPTER III: LOGICAL GRAMMAR AND REALITY 81-108

1. Logical Grammar and Ideal Language
2. Grammar and What it makes sense to say
3. Arbitrariness of Grammar
4. Quine’s Naturalism with Ontological Commitment
5. Carnap’s criticism of Ontology
6. ‘What There Is’ and the Essence of Logical Grammar

CHAPTER IV: THE SEMANTICAL STRUCTURES: TRUTH, MEANING AND THE WORLD 109-141

1. Meaning and Truth
2. The Semantic Theory of Truth
3. Davidson’s Realist Approach to Truth and Meaning
4. Some Difficulties Involved in Davidson’s Proposal
5. Is Truth Central to a Theory of Meaning?
6. Dummett’s Criticism of the Truth-conditions Theory of Meaning
7. Truth Condition and Use
8. Dummett’s Anti-realist Alternative
9. Some Difficulties with the Anti-realist theory of Meaning

CHAPTER V: THE APRIORI (LOGICAL) STRUCTURE OF METAPHYSICS 142-167

1. Metaphysical Consequence of Antirealism
2. From Anti-realism to Relativism
3. Idealism as a Consequence of Anti-realism
4. Is Truth Well Lost?

CONCLUSION 168-170

WORKS CITED 171-173