Acknowledgments

This thesis is the end of my long journey in obtaining my degree in Economics. I have not traveled in a vacuum in this journey. There are some people who made this journey easier with words of encouragement and more intellectually satisfying by offering different ways to look to expand my theories and ideas.

First a very special thanks you to my supervisor Professor Amitabh Kundu, without whose knowledge and assistance this study would not have been successful. His constant encouragement, support, and invaluable suggestions made this work successful. He has been everything that one could want in an advisor. Perhaps more than that. Thank you doesn’t seem sufficient but it is said with appreciation and respect.

My deepest gratitude are also due to my co-supervisor, Professor Ramprasad Sengupta, who took me on the process of learning and made himself available even through his very tiring travel, work and teaching schedules. His understanding, encouraging and personal guidance have provided a good basis for the present thesis. Thank you Sir.

My special thanks to Professor Amitabh Mattoo for his kind, generous and cheery attitude who never ever let me feel the professional pressure at Jammu University. I really learnt a lot from him.

I was immensely helped by Prof. Rajendra Gupta and Prof. Nirmal Gupta for allowing me to flex my official schedule which helped me during the finishing stages of this work.

Bismita Das and Samantareya Buddha deserve a very special thanks for supporting me and standing besides me through out my stay in Jammu and later in Delhi.
Thanks are due to Suresh Babu, Mathew Joseph, Sangeeta Thapliyal, Deepankar Sengupta, Baljit Singh, Shyam Narayan Lal, Happymon Jacob, Prakash Antahal and Virender Koundal for keeping me in high spirits when ever I was a little low.

I would also like to gratefully acknowledge the support of some very very special people in my life Surya Bhushan, Narendra Tripathi, Ashwini Kumar, Pramod Kumar Singh, Akhilesh Mishra and Geetesh Bharadwaj for providing a stimulating and fun environment in which to learn and grow. They helped me immensely by giving me encouragement and friendship. They mirrored back my ideas so I heard them aloud, an important process to shape this thesis.

I am also grateful to my students at Jammu University, who never complained and were always ready to change their schedule to suit that of mine.

I am also thankful to Prashant for typing my manuscripts at short notices, that too with least typing errors, for him even my scribbles no matter how illegible, always made sense!

Lastly, and most importantly, I wish to thank my family.

My parents deserve special mention for their inseparable support and prayers. My late Father in the first place is the person who ingrained in me learning and probing character, showing me the joy of intellectual pursuit ever since I was a child. My Mother is the one who sincerely raised me with her caring and gentle love. Words fail me to express my appreciation to my sisters. Their dedication, love and persistent confidence in me, never allowed me to get distracted. They bored me, supported me, taught me, and loved me.
