ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This is actually one of the most difficult parts to write, since it’s not possible to mention few names to extend my heart filled thanks to all those who have been with me since the beginning of my long desired aspiration of becoming a Doctor. Ph.D. has been a long journey with lots of ups and downs, met so many known, unknown faces and each one of them has contributed to the vast reservoir of knowledge that I started to explore. Initially, when I got registered for Ph.D., I was very happy but when the process started, I realized it is not as easy as it appeared. Being in the full time job of being a teacher trainer, I had to encounter a lot of challenges in terms of getting permission to collect data from schools, preparing and execution of self-made tools, interviewing the teachers, and reflecting and analyzing on the collected data. It was a big task to go through each step in a systematic and organized manner.

To start with, I would like to express my deep gratitude to the ‘Almighty’ and chanting ‘Nam –myoho-renge-kyo’ introduced to me by my very dear and close family friend Ankur. It gave me a lot of strength and courage to overcome the weak moments and strive to achieve the goal with a lot of positive outlook and energy. I could actually experience the mystic magic of getting connected to God through deep chanting of the four meaningful words.

I wouldn’t have been able to complete this daunting task without the support, encouragement, motivation and trust of my Guru, my supervisor Dr. Ranjana Bhatia. Thank you mam for everything, as I got to learn from you not just academically, but nuances of leading a good personal life as well. Your feedback and observation of minute details of my drafts have to a large extent evolved me as a better writer. I will always need your guidance and support in future endeavors as well to add quality to whatever I do in life.

I want to express my sincere and deepest gratitude to all the family members who have always been there for me and acted as a strong pillar of strength specially my brother Deepak who always stood by me in my entire thick and thins during the difficult process. He provided me encouragement and moral support and I was able to finish this tough task because of his unending support.

Next, I want to thank all my teachers of University School of Education for providing quality feedback in five monthly progress report presentations and taking out time to determine the validity of my tools. I extend my deep regards and respect to Prof. Saroj Sharma, Dr. Sangeeta Chauhan, Prof. Neerja Shukla, Dr. Dhanajay Joshi, Dr. Shalini Yadava, Dr. Amit Ahuja, Dr. Anjali and all the experts and members of Board of Studies and progress report presentation for their descriptive and timely feedback on the basis of which I could reflect, rethink and bring quality to my work. I express my indebtedness to the entire school of education of GGSIP University for constant support at all times. I can never forget to thank and express my deepest gratitude to the authors of all the studies that I incorporated in my research. These studies have actually helped me in providing a direction to my study and in drawing out discussion of results.

How can I forget the cooperation extended by the School Principals, and teachers for understanding the value of my study and granting the permission and time for data collection out of their hectic schedule. A big thanks to all the two hundred teachers and twenty schools for providing me the required information and expressing their suggestions so that it could find a vital place in my work. I want to express my deepest indebtedness to Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) and Center for Assessment and Evaluation Research (CAER) Ex-Interim Director Isabel and Director (CBSE, Academics, Research, Training & Innovation) Dr. Sadhana Parashar for their cooperation and necessary support during data collection and in tool construction. They have also expressed their interest to share the findings of my study with CBSE. I also want to express my gratefulness to Geetanjali Mohanty Mam and Dr. S.C Panda for extending cooperation in tool construction by granting permission to use few items and providing suggestions to incorporate the same.

I want to extend my sincere thanks to all my colleagues for their able guidance and support for the smooth execution of my research work. Their sharing of valuable experience, tips helped me a lot in the conduct and follow up of my study. Their constant feedback helped me in generating ideas to conduct my study in an efficient manner.

I would also like to extend my sincere thanks to the Library authorities of Delhi University, Jamia Millia Islamia, NCERT, NUEPA, and GGSIP University for granting permission to consult journals, books, thesis for framing chapter two of my study. My earnest thanks to the DRC, and USE office administration for extending their cooperation and support in completing all the final submission formalities by maintaining patience and calmness all times.

Last but not the least, life without friends is always incomplete, but I am lucky to have such friends in life that stood like a rock for me even though I never got a chance to talk to them on everyday basis. I cannot forget my friend, philosopher and guide Mrs. Geeta Thapliyal whose motivating and kind words changed me from being a restless to a calmer personality in conducting my study. I want to extend my special thanks to Dr. Chhaya Sawhney for her words of encouragement and taking out time to edit chapter one which couldn’t have shaped up well without her much needed guidance and suggestions. You have been quite an inspiration for me in creating a balance between professional and personal life. I wish to mention the names of Dr. Aanchal, Dr. Rajesh, Ms Sonal Chabra (who always stood for me like a solid rock in every situation) Arti Bhatnagar, Indrajeet Dutta, Shailly and Dr. Sanjeev Jha who have taught and clarified me what research is all about and how one needs to be constantly engaged in the process of self-reflection to find out the answers through a process of learn, relearn and unlearn.

It is said that ‘All is well, that ends well’. So, I hope that whatever best I could do as per my potential, I have done and my journey has actually not come to an end, but it’s just a beginning of another beautiful journey to extend the boundaries of my research work for the reasons I couldn’t do earlier, but now ready to apply the knowledge acquired in different contexts.
