ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Research is like an enchanting, excruciating, difficult, interesting as well as enjoyable journey. And finally research makes us see the 'light' and brings metamorphosis in the body, mind and soul of the researcher. During this voyage and expedition of writing this Ph.D. thesis the person who steered me, directed me, showed me the light and finally brought about a metamorphosis in me is my supervisor Prof. Abdul Nafey. His immortal teachings, timeless scholarly guidance, inexhaustible patience, constant encouragement and fatherly affection have indeed made this thesis to see the light of the day. When I joined the centre I was just like clay and Prof. Nafey has given me a shape. I am profoundly grateful and deeply indebted to him for helping in channelising my thoughts and giving a definite form and shape to my ideas. A great teacher, wonderful human being and motivating personality Prof. Nafey has been a great source of inspiration for me. During this process of my Ph.D. thesis work I lost my father and my mother is prolonging illness, and during such a difficult as well as crucial period Prof. Nafey has stood behind me and has extended every kind of help and to be very honest without his help and support I could not have completed this Ph.D. research work. If it is sinned to reborn, I will love to be sinned to born again and again as your student. It is said that words can not express one’s feelings, but here word is the only way to express myself.

I express my deep and profound sense of gratitude to Prof. J.L. Ferreira for his constant support and guidance. A noble teacher and wonderful human being Prof. Ferreira has been a great source of inspiration for me.

I also exhibit my deepest gratitude and thankfulness to Dr. Priti Singh for her academic support and insights. As a teacher and like an elder sister she has always made me feel free to go to her anytime and discuss any aspect pertaining to my research.

I offer my gratefulness and thankfulness to Prof. Chintamani Mahapatra and Prof. Christopher S. Raj for their academic help and support.

I am also indebted to Dr. K.P. Vijayalakshmi and Dr. Saleem Kidwai for their academic support.

I offer my special thanks and gratefulness to Prof. R. Narayanan for explaining me some of the significant aspects of diaspora and suggesting me some good readings on Indian diaspora.

I am deeply grateful and indebted to Prof. Darvesh Gopal for his academic support and help.
My interaction with Prof. Brinsley Samaroo, University of the West Indies, Trinidad and Tobago during his stay at Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi has been quite helpful for my research work. My great regards to him.

I am especially grateful to my close and dear friend Jag Pal for his inexhaustible support and unflinching cooperation in preparing this thesis work. My special thanks to my dear and close friend Prasant for his persistent help and kind support in the preparation of this research work. I am also thankful to all my juniors in Latin American Studies Division, Devashree, Ujwal, Namci, Ranjana, Poonam, and Zia for their love and support extended to me in the preparation of this thesis work.

My greatest love and regards to my father who had inspired me to go for Ph.D. research and he would have been the happiest person in this world to see me completing my Ph.D. I think he must be enjoying this moment from the heaven. He still lives in me and guides me in my every endeavour. My love and regards to my mother for her unflagging love and unflinching emotional support. I think the completion of this research work will provide her a great consolation of the loss of my father as well as of the prolonging illness that she herself is suffering from. I profoundly acknowledge the emotional support extended by my younger brother Shambhu, sister Kalpana, brother-in-law Panchanan Bhai, my cousins and uncles and aunts.

Last but not the least while various sources have been used in the preparation of this thesis work, I am solely responsible for any kind of mistake that might have crept in.
