ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The present research work is the outcome of selfless help, motivation, encouragement, cooperation, suggestion and blessing given by a number of people.

In no words I can express my gratitude to Prof. F. Ram, Director, International Institute for Population Sciences (IIPS), Mumbai, for enlightening me with his erudite thoughts; it is with genuine pleasure that I acknowledge his valuable suggestions, which helped me to overcome many difficulties at various stages of this research work.

I express my heartiest sense of gratitude and profound indebtedness to my research guide Dr. Rajiva Prasad, Associate Professor, Department of Migration and Urban Studies, IIPS, who has always shouldered the sole responsibility of guiding the work right from the beginning to the final submission. I strongly feel that it has been indeed a great privilege for me to have worked with him, who like a beacon, provided me the right direction throughout the research work. In spite of being involved with many other assignments, he was able to clarify all my doubts during the course of the study period.

I would like to express my deep sense of gratitude to my revered teacher Late Prof. P. N. Mari Bhat, Ex. Director, IIPS, for giving constructive comments during formulation of the thesis, which will always be present in my memory.

I am also thankful to Dr. P. Arokiasamy, Ph.D. course coordinator, Professor, Department of Development Studies, for giving me an opportunity to pursue my study in this institute and all the support provided to me during this study.

I must express special thanks to Dr. L. L. Singh, Professor and Head, Department of Mathematical demography and Statistics, IIPS, for his technical support and advice which encouraged me to submit my dissertation without delay. I would like to extend my thanks also to Prof. M. Guruswami, Professor and in-charge, Data-center and computer center for providing access to computers even on non working days of the institute.

I wish to convey my deep gratitude to all the faculty members of IIPS and research staff for their cooperation and encouragement throughout my research period. In particular, I owe special thanks to Dr. Chander Shekhar, Associate Professor, Department of Mathematical demography and Statistics, who has been a constant source of inspiration and support during the completion of this thesis.

I would like to give special thanks to Prof. T. K. Roy, Ex. Director, IIPS, for being present and encouraging me during my MPS/MPhil presentation and still being a support pillar for my IIPS career.
I must express special thanks to Prof. Pradeep Mishra, Additional Director, Population Research Centre, Department of Economics, University of Lucknow, for his moral support and advice throughout my research work.

I must thank Dr. Laxmi Kant Dwivedi, Assistant Professor, Tata Institute of Social Sciences, Mumbai, for his technical help from time to time in preparation of this thesis.

I would be failing in my duties if I fail to thank Mr. M. Sekar, Assistant Registrar (Academic) for his kind cooperation and support at various points of time. I am also thankful to Mr. Somenath, Mr. Ankush and Mr. Tilak at the academic session for their constant help and support.

I would also like to thank all the members of library for their constant help and support throughout preparation of dissertation. The staff members of the computers and Data center also need special thanks for their kind help and cooperation time and again.

I would like to thank Mr. D. D. Mistry, Library and Information Officer, and K. Praveen Kumar, Asstt. Librarian and Information Officer, IIPS, Mumbai and their staff for helping me throughout my research period.

I am also thankful to Mr. Lakhan Singh, and Dr. Shivakami M. Tata Institute of Social Sciences, Mumbai, for their help and support in the preparation of my PhD thesis.

I have special thanks for Dr. Abhishek Singh, and Dr. Manoj Alagrajan, IIPS, Mumbai, for their moral support for my PhD thesis.

I have special thanks for Mr. Anand Jagtap, Special Duty Officer, Municipal Corporation of Greater Mumbai and his friend Shashikant Jagtap for their help and support in BMC offices and other related works in BMC.

I would like to give special thanks to my field investigators Mrs. Vaishali Pramod Sakpal and Mr. Harish Chand Pathak for giving me special cooperation and assistance during my field work.

I have very special thanks for Preeti Dhillon, Shreeparna, Santosh, Abhishek Dubey, and Anamika in IIPS for their technical help and support in writing my thesis.

I also wish to thank Dr. Niyati Joshi, Asstt. Director, Central Statistical Organization, New Delhi for his constant help and support, and friends Bidhu Bhushan Mahapatra (Population Council), Diwakar Yadav, Uma Shankar Majhi, Chayan Roy Choudhari and Oliver Brito (PhD Candidates from Paris) in IIPS, who have always provided me helping hand and moral and academic support at each and every stage of the study.
I wish to convey my deep regards to juniors Raj Narayan, Ranjan Prusty, Abba Pulu, and Satish Chauhan of IIPS, for their moral support and care during my PhD work.

I would like thank especially Mrs. Princy Yesudian (publication cell, IIPS) and Mrs. Santhi Nakkeeran for their help and support at the critical stages while finalizing this thesis.

I wish to convey my deep regards to Emeritus Prof. Gunnar Jack, Royal Institute of Technology, Stockholm and Mr. Mangesh Gupte, Manager, Hindustan Construction Company, Mumbai, for his valuable suggestion for finalizing my thesis.

I am indebted to University Grant Commission and Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, Government of India, New Delhi, for providing me research fellowship that enables me to pursue my Ph.D. coursework.

Last but not the least, I owe my beloved Mummy - Papa and family members Bhaiya - Bhabhi, and their kids (Aditi and Ananya) Didi - Jija, and their kids (Ashwani and Anjali), who have been a constant source of support and inspiration and whose love, affection and blessing has infused energy in me to complete this work well in time.
