ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It gives me immense pleasure to acknowledge the guidance, support, assistance and encouragement that I have received during the long gestation of this thesis.

I take this opportunity to sincerely acknowledge the Government of India for providing me financial assistance during my research tenure.

At this moment of accomplishment, I express my deepest sense of gratitude and profound indebtedness to my guide, Dr. Kamla Gupta, Professor and Head, Department of Migration and Urban Studies for her continuous support and guidance. It is because of her interest in this study since its beginning that this thesis could take shape. Her expertise, thoughtfulness and constructive criticism have not only guided in the completion of the thesis but also have enriched and expanded my realm of knowledge. She was always there to listen and to give advice. She showed me different ways to approach a research problem and the need to be persistent to accomplish any goal. She has and would always remain as a source of inspiration for me.

My heartiest thanks are to Prof. T.K. Roy, ex-Director of this institute, who gave me an opportunity to carry out my PhD work at this Institute. He has always been a source of inspiration for me. His thinking and precious suggestions had helped me a lot in the improvement of my work. It is an honor to be his student.

I would like to offer my sincere gratitude to Late Prof. P.N. Mari Bhat, ex-Director of this institute. He has always encouraged us in every aspect of research and wanted that every piece of research work should be published. It makes me feel sad that he is no longer with us to see the completion of this research work.

Studying and staying at IIPS has been a stimulating experience. My heartiest thanks are to Prof. Faujdar Ram, Director of the Institute for providing the type of learning environment, which includes intellectual creativity. I am also thankful to him for his cooperation during my PhD. His precious suggestions helped me a lot in the improvement of my work.

I convey my special thanks to Dr. Usha Ram, Reader, Department of Public Health and Mortality Studies at this Institute, for all support and advice during the course of this research work. I am really indebted to her for her love and affection. Despite of her busy schedule and not being associated with this work, she was always eager to study my research proposal. At the same time she helped me a lot in the finalization of the questionnaire. Her comments and suggestions helped me a lot in improving this research work.

I would be failing in my duty if I do not offer my heart felt gratitude to Prof. M. Guruswamy, Head, Department of Development Studies at the Institute for his valuable suggestions, comments, encouragement and support.

Besides my advisor, I would like to thank the my thesis committee members: Dr. Sulabha Parasuraman and Dr. S.K. I extend my thanks to all the other faculty members of the Institute for their valuable suggestions and advice at times when they were highly required.

My sincere thanks are due to Mr. M. Sekar, Assistant Registrar (Academic), for his kind cooperation and help. He has always extended a helping hand in times of need. I would also like to thank Mr. Somnath, Mr. Shinde, Mr. Zore and Mrs. Rekha for their constant help and support.

I must thank my seniors Rajiv Ranjan, Manoj Alagarajan, Anjula Saraff, Ranjana Singh, Preeti Chauhan, Emily Chauhan, Praween Aggarwal and Sutapa Aggarwal who provided exceptional support and care during this research and during my stay at IIPS.

I would also like to thank my friends Abhishek, Laxmi Kant, Nitin, Dhananjay, Benoy, Sudipta, Sourabh, Amen, Sudeshna, Reshami, Mohua, Subhra, Manas, Nihar for helping me get through the difficult times and for all the emotional support and caring. Also thanks to my office colleagues and friends for their constant support, encouragement and interesting discussions. Thanks, Guys! It’s really being fun to be with you all.

I also would like to make a special reference to Dr. Hari K. Nagarajan who is the Senior Fellow and my boss at the National Council of Applied Economic Research. Without his cooperation I could not have completed this research work.

I wish to thank my entire extended family for providing a loving environment for me. My parents, for giving me life in the first place, for educating me with aspects from both arts and sciences, for unconditional support and encouragement to pursue my interests, even when the interests went beyond boundaries of language, field and geography. To them I dedicate this thesis. My two younger sisters, my brother-in-laws and my sister-in--laws, were really very supportive and they helped a lot in the study and for its success.

Special thanks goes to my loving husband and co-advisor, Ajay, who is most responsible for helping me complete the writing of this thesis as well as the challenging research that lies behind it. He has been a friend and mentor. He had confidence in me when I doubted myself, and brought out the good ideas in me. More importantly, he taught me how to work hard and play hard and reduce stress. Without his encouragement and constant guidance, I could not have finished this dissertation. He was always there to talk about my ideas, to proofread and mark up my papers and chapters, and to ask me good questions to help me think through my problems. And the arrival of my sweet little angel, my daughter Aashi, who is just 2 years old, gave me enough joy and pleasure to complete my thesis on time.

Last, but not the least, I thank my respondents, without their cooperation it would not have been possible to complete the study. I would also like to thank the members of the hostel management, the warden and other staff members of the hostel who despite of their tight schedule took time off to provide information and make this study possible.

And it would not be successful without God who guides me in my everyday life and activities; I thank Him for the good health he has given to me, and for the success of my study.

Finally, I offer my regards and blessings to all of those who supported me in any respect during the completion of the thesis.
