Acknowledgement

Dr. Sachidananda Sinha, my teacher and supervisor, is the moving force behind my present academic pursuit. He has been my guide, philosopher, friend and my intellectual stay since I have joined the M.A. course in 1997. He has extended immense academic space and support to enrich my research capability. His style of interaction always makes me feel at home. His expectations are very high from me. However, he kept boosting my morale always. His immense support egged me towards the completion of the task. The present study is an outcome of his painstaking efforts. He has motivated me to broaden the confined spheres of my research undertaking. I am thankful to him for sparing so much time and effort for me from his other busy schedule. However, it is my deep sense of gratitude for him. I would like to thank for his guidance. I am also grateful to Dr. Unita Sachidananda and whole family for being affectionate towards me.

I have a great sense of respect for my husband Dr. S.N. Dubey for his encouragement and support. His immense cooperation in all spheres of my life. He took lots of trouble during my research work. His presence beside me always even in the field needs special mention in the completion of my research work. I also extend deep sense of gratitude to my in laws, who have always been my source of encouragement in many ways. They always had been the source of my inspiration. I am grateful to my mother in law for who always had been beside me during my Ph. D work and taking care of my cute baby during my fieldwork. I am thankful to my daughter Prema who relieved me from immense tiredness. The kind of support I received from them during the past three years can never be acknowledged by words. I am highly grateful to the ‘baba’ of our family without whose blessings the task would not be possible. Finally, the credit goes to my family for their patience and encouragements despite lots and lots of trouble. I would like to mention the contribution of my father and mother and uncle in strengthening my determination in my studies. Their painstaking efforts and encouragement brought me upto this level. Their contribution cannot be expressed in words who had taken lots of trouble for me. I would like to thank my younger Santa and elder sister Tamali for giving moral support for my studies. Last but not the least, I would like to thank each member of our family who have been a great help and support for me throughout.

It is an opportunity for me to acknowledge Prof. S.K. Thorat for having provided me with support. I have a special gratitude forDeependranath sir for his immense cooperation. I would like to express gratitude to teachers and staff of the Centre for the Study of Regional Development for supporting in various ways. I would like to thank Mr. M. Tamil Sevlan for helping hand in the completion of the maps. I would like to thank Varghese Sir for helping in many ways ranging from providing data and teaching GIS. I am highly grateful to Mr. T.N. Mishra for his academic support. I am also thankful to Dr. Sanjay Bharadwaj and family for their cooperation and moral support.

The Central Library of JNU, documentation libraries of CSRD, NIEPA, NCERT, New Delhi, Bikash Bhaban (West Bengal), SIPRD (Kalyani) are of special mention, from where I got very rich sources of information. I thank Dilip Kumar Ghosh, secretary of Ministry of Panchayat, A. C. Mehta for providing me necessary data. My acknowledgement goes to those who have extended their support in various ways. These are Mallick, secretary of Saraitinna Gram panchayat, Sibani Saha, teacher of Puruliya, Pankaj pal, SI Puruliya, Pradhan of Debanandapur Gram panchayat etc. to arrange my stay and cooperation for household survey. I am thankful to my best friend Sujata Roy and her husband Tanay for their cooperation during my fieldwork and arranged for accommodation. For their loving and caring attitude, it was possible for me to carry on fieldwork during my last phase of pregnancy. Not only they have provided shelter accommodation and food, hospitality, information and transport but have been great source of information.
