Acknowledgement

The pages that follow will be dealing with the doctrine of trisvabhāva in the Yogācāra philosophy. The successful as well as unsuccessful results of the actions of a human being depend to a very large extent on interaction with various aspects of total environment. I will not anticipate the extent to which my work may be the successful or unsuccessful outcome of years of attention to the enigma of the three natures.

This thesis has reached fruition only through the various efforts of many people. I take this opportunity to express my hearty gratitude and appreciation to all those who have been a source of inspiration and in seeing it through to its eventual completion.

I would like to express my gratitude to my supervisor, Dr. Surya Kant Maharana, who has guided me through the whole writing process with great patience and provided helpful advices necessary to complete my dissertation.

I wish to express my gratitude to the Head and Former Head of Department of Philosophy, University of Allahabad, who kindly provided all administrative and other assistance during the period of my research in the Department for suggestions and guidance. I am also thankful to Prof. Jata Shankar and all teachers in the Department of Philosophy, University of Allahabad for their valuable advice and affectionate inspiration, which encouraged me to finish the work.

I also thank all members and office staff of The Central Library of University of Allahabad for their kind and generous assistance in providing me the required material for my research work.
My deep and special thankfulness goes to my Family, Father and Mother, Master Ven. Thich Thien Tanh have taken care and brought up me, Dharma Brother Ven. Thich Nguyen Thanh introduced and helped to get D.Phil Course, Brothers and Sisters, friends in Dharma, Laymen and Laywomen, who enthusiastically supported me during the period of my research in India.

I thank them all with all my heart and respect. I dedicate whatever merit this work may accrue for the benefit of all being.

Vo Tuan Hai