List of Illustrations

Fig. 1: A Section of the Rotunda, Leicester Square: The panorama panoply promoting virtual tourism. Source: Plans and Views Perspective by Robert Mitchell (1801). http://bibliodyssey.blogspot.com/2008/11/panorama-handbills.html.

Fig. 2: A Panorama Image of Mexico: An example of the enormous popularity of foreign landscapes enjoyed. Courtesy Victoria and Albert Museum Library holdings, Blythe House Archive and Library Reading Room, Olympia.

Fig. 3: Playbill of Chinese Sorcerer (1823): An instance of the thrill oriental subjects and settings created on the contemporary stage. (Front). Courtesy Victoria and Albert Museum Library holdings, Blythe House Archive and Library Reading Room, Olympia.

Fig. 4: Playbill of Chinese Sorcerer (1823): An instance of the thrill oriental subjects and settings created on the contemporary stage. (Back). Courtesy Victoria and Albert Museum Library holdings, Blythe House Archive and Library Reading Room, Olympia.

Fig. 5: Panorama of London: A view of London from the dome of St. Paul's Cathedral. Source: http://bibliodyssey.blogspot.com/2008/11/panorama-handbills.html.

Fig. 6: 'Mr. and Mrs. Andrews' (1750) by Thomas Gainsborough. Source: http://www.wga.hu/art/g/gainsbor/02andrew.jpg.

Fig. 7: Playbill of Inchbald's A Mogul Tale (1784): A play with Indian setting and subject immensely popular at the time. Courtesy Victoria and Albert Museum holdings, Blythe House Archive and Library Reading Room, Olympia.

Fig. 8: Playbill of Omai, 1786. Courtesy Victoria and Albert Museum holdings, Blythe House Archive and Library Reading Room, Olympia.
Fig. 9: Theatre Scene of Omai (1786) constructed by Jacques de Loutherbourgb showing the Tahitian landscape and the inside of a native hut. Courtesy Victoria and Albert Museum holdings, Blythe House Archive and Library Reading Room, Olympia.

Fig. 10: Theatre Scene of Omai (1786) constructed by Jacques de Loutherbourgb showing the Tahitian landscape and the inside of a native hut. Courtesy Victoria and Albert Museum holdings, Blythe House Archive and Library Reading Room, Olympia.

Fig. 11: Playbill of Moncrieff's Cataract of the Ganges (1823): A Catalogue of all the oriental attractions viewable on stage. (Front). Courtesy Victoria and Albert Museum holdings, Blythe House Archive and Library Reading Room, Olympia.

Fig. 12: Playbill of Moncrieff's Cataract of the Ganges (1823): A Catalogue of all the oriental attractions viewable on stage. (Back). Courtesy Victoria and Albert Museum holdings, Blythe House Archive and Library Reading Room, Olympia.

Fig. 13: Playbill of the play Relief of Lucknow: An example of oriental war spectacle immensely popular in the 19th century. Courtesy Victoria and Albert Museum holdings, Blythe House Archive and Library Reading Room, Olympia.

Fig. 14: Panorama Image of the 'Siege of Seringapatam'. Source: http://www/english.wisc.edu/tkelley/NASSR/images/8Seringapatam-DRight3.jpg

Fig. 23: Sir Charles D'Oyly: 'Paugla Pool with a view of Dacca'. Courtesy, British Library.

Fig. 24: Chinnery's Vignette of a Village Scene included on D'Oyly's Antiquities of Dacca. Courtesy, British Library.

Fig. 25: The Kirkpatrick Children by George Chinnery. Source: http://3.bp.blogspot.com/_jVVU3JR5iWo/SKWn1ew6AEI/AAAAAAAAAcU/NmiF76vWKzM/s320/Chinnery+Kirkpatrick+Children.bmp

Fig. 26: Chinnery: Western Entrance of Port St. George. Courtesy British Library.

Fig. 27: Chinnery: Unknown. Source: http://www.banglatorrents.com/desher-chhobi/7893-sketch-of-sir-charles-doyly.html

Fig. 28: Chinnery: Temple in Bengal. Courtesy British Library.

Fig. 29: 'Siege of Seringapatam'. Source: http://www.gettyimages.com/detail/50898626/Hulton-Archive

Fig. 30: Chinnery: A Mausoleum in Dacca. Courtesy, British Library.

Fig. 31: Chinnery: Study of Native Figures. Courtesy, British Library.
Fig. 32: Sir Charles D'Oyly: The Great Peepul Tree at Bodh Gaya. Courtesy Victoria Memorial Hall, Kolkata.

Fig. 34: John Inigo Richards. Ramah Droog (Covent Garden, 1798). Source: Rosenfeld, Sybil. 1981. Georgian Scene Painters and Scene Painting. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.

Fig. 35: Clarkson Stanfield. Possible oriental scene from a pantomime. Source: Rosenfeld, Sybil. 1981. Georgian Scene Painters and Scene Painting. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.

Fig. 36: Clarkson Stanfield. Back-cloth probably showing Etna or Vesuvius of an unidentified play at Drury Lane. Source: Rosenfeld, Sybil. 1981. Georgian Scene Painters and Scene Painting. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.

Fig. 37: John Hodgins. Captain Cook, probably for The Death of Captain Cook (Covent Garden, 1804). Source: Rosenfeld, Sybil. 1981. Georgian Scene Painters and Scene Painting. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.

Fig. 39: A View of Garden Reach, Calcutta by William Hodges. Courtesy: Victoria Memorial Hall, Calcutta.

Fig. 40: A Conversation piece by Johann Zoffany commissioned by Warren Hastings. Courtesy: Victoria Memorial Hall, Calcutta.

Fig. 41: Lambton's General Survey of South Peninsula. Courtesy: British Library.