

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am deeply indebted to Dr. Goutam Kumar Saha, Professor of Zoology, University of Calcutta, for his continuous guidance, co-operation and moral support in every step of this Ph.D. programme. I feel privileged to be his student since my post-graduation days at the Department of Zoology, University of Calcutta.

My earnest thanks to the Head of the Department of Zoology, University of Calcutta for providing all sorts of facilities for this research work. The encouragement received from all my teachers in the Department of Zoology since my post-graduation days is thankfully acknowledged. I am thankful to all the non-teaching staffs for their utmost co-operation and library staffs for offering me the library facilities.

I convey my warmest thank to my lab mates Dr. Indranil Roy, Dr. Sanjoy Podder, Dr. Soumi Nandi, Dr. Amrita Mukherjee, Dr. Himani Biswas, Dr. Soumyajit Banerjee, Dr. Subhendu Majumder, Ms. Poulami Sarangi, Ms. Shreya Brahma, and Ms. Swarnali Mukherjee for their assistance in various forms and also for maintaining a congenial atmosphere in the laboratory.

I express my sincere thanks to the Director, Zoological Survey of India for giving permission to visit the Lepidoptera Section of ZSI as and when required. Dr. Bulganin Mitra, Lepidoptera Section, Zoological Survey of India also deserves special thanks. The field surveys were carried out in Gorumara National Park, Jalpaiguri district in-connection with the project entitled 'Feasibility study regarding re-introduction of Pygmy Hog at Gorumara National Park, Jalpaiguri, West Bengal' implemented by Zoological Survey of India and financed by Directorate of Forests, Government of West Bengal. My earnest thanks to Dr. Joy Krishna De, Retd. Scientist, Zoological Survey of India, for his continuous support and constructive criticism during the tenure of this study. Thanks are also due to D.F.O., Wildlife Division - II, Jalpaiguri for providing logistic and other necessary facilities in the Gorumara National Park. This was impossible without the constant support from local forest officials, especially Mr. Tarun Mahalanobish, Range Officer (Gorumara North Range) and Mr. Bimal Debnath, Range Officer (Gorumara South Range) during visit to respective sites. I received warm hospitality and constant support from the Forest Guards during all the successive survey trips. My sincere thanks to all the 'Mahouts' and Departmental Elephants without whom the field surveys were not possible. Mr. Angshuman Raha, Research Scholar, Zoological Survey of India deserves special thanks for his technical help during preparation of GIS maps.

I express my sincere gratitude to Dr. Asok Kanti Sanyal, Chairman, West Bengal Biodiversity Board, Kolkata and other officials of the Board, for their kind co-operation and help at all stages during the preparation of the manuscript.

I convey my sincere gratitude to Dr. Krushnamegh Kunte, Reader, NCBS, Tata Institute of Fundamental Research, Bengaluru for his timely support in identifying not-so-common butterfly species. Dr. Kunte has also helped me by making his entire collection of literature accessible to me. I am also grateful to Mr. Arjan Basu Roy, Secretary, Nature Mates - Nature Club, Kolkata for his consistent support during various trips in and out of the State of West Bengal. He also provided me the opportunity to take part in various biodiversity status surveys in Protected Areas conducted by his organization. The support provided by two of my senior travel mates Mr. Nelson Rodrigues and Mr. Balakrishnan Valappil are worth mentioning here. Mr. Subhankar Patra and Mr. Radhanath Polley are to be specially mentioned for their technical support in identifying larval host plants during the entire survey. They were my nature-guides who let me get introduced to this fascinating world of butterflies ten years back. Mr. Tanmoy Ghosh, President, iREBEL also deserves special thanks for his help when I was novice in the field of digital photography.

I express my deepest gratitude to my parents, in-laws for their ungrudging help, constant moral support, perseverance and co-operation during the entire study. My heartfelt thank to my wife Anindita for her constant support and faith on me.

Undoubtedly there are many individuals and institutions not mentioned here but are responsible for successful completion of this work. I convey my thanks to all of them.
