

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I take this opportunity to express my sincere and heartfelt thanks to my guide Dr. Mukund K.V. Lamani. I am indebted to him not merely for guiding me with his clear and incisive ideas, but also for teaching me English language and literature right from my under graduate course at Karnatak Arts College and giving me the opportunity to work under him for my Ph.D course. I thank him for his unfailing help, support and encouragement.

I wish to express my thanks to Dr. Mallikarjun Patil, Professor and Chairman and also to Dr. Chandrama Kanagali, Dr. Shamala Ratnakar, Dr. K. Manavalli, Dr. Ashok Hulibandi and Dr. N.H. Kallur of the Department of English studies for their encouragement, and I am very grateful to both the librarians and the staff of Karnataka College and Karnatak University Dharwad, for their help providing the useful reference materials relating to the study.

I am very much thankful to Dr. A.V. Karabasanagoudra Dept. of Education, Rani Channamma University Belagavi for his support and encouragement.

I express my sincere gratitude to my beloved parents, for their continuous encouragement, support, and for their love, affection, care and concern for my research work. My father Ramappa H. Vasana is the inspiration of my life and source of my strength and confidence without him this project would never be completed. My mother Shantavva R. Vasana whose moral and emotional support and encouragement made me to complete this research work. I must thank my sisters Shaila P. Mikali and Savita V. Patil and my friends Shrinivas K., Manjunath Angadi, Raghavendra Kambali, Govind Maraddi and all my other friends for their concern and co-operation with their best wishes to complete my research work.
