Acknowledgment

While coming to acknowledge the guidance, help and efforts put in the preparation and writing this thesis, the name of my reverent guide, Dr. (Mrs.) Sangeeta Arora, Reader, Department of Commerce and Business Management, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar, spontaneously comes on the top. She unconditionally acted as a beacon of light in showing me the right direction. She never gave me the impression of my relation with her only as a teacher and a taught but much beyond it, she gave me the feel of her own child and allowed me free access to her even at odd hours. But for her uninhibited guidance and blessings to me, this thesis could not have been reduced in black and white. I am all praise and indebted to her.

The role of University Grants Commission for providing me financial help in the shape of granting me fellowship cannot be overemphasized. Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar, especially, the Department of Commerce and Business Management, provided me the necessary infrastructural support of library, accommodation and its learned faculty particularly, the Head of the Department. I express my sincere gratitude to them.

Last, but not the least, is the encouragement and unstinted support rendered by my family members especially, my grandfather, Sh. Somnath Rattan and my father, Sh. Ravinder Nath who always stood behind me like a pillar of strength and made it their own mission to enable me to complete this research. I also express my respectful regards to my brother, Mr. Pawan Kumar for his constant support and encouragement in all my professional endeavors. They always loved me so much that I do not wish to observe the formality of thanking them for an invaluable role played by them.

Above all God has always been exceptionally kind to me in all my ambitions of life and I am always beholden to Him.
