ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am greatly indebted to my supervisor Dr. A. Bopegamage. It is only because of his continuous encouragement and guidance that I could register myself for Ph.D. degree and complete this thesis. His urge for higher levels of perfection has greatly enhanced my learning process.

I am thankful to the Zilla Parishad, Pune and my respondents who gave me wholehearted co-operation in helping me to understand the rural youth and the process of rural development. Shri S.K. Sagane, Ms. Charusheela Sohoni (C.E.O.'s), Shri Dabadage, Shri Deshpande, Shri Kulkarni (B.D.O.'s) and the Gramsevaks of the selected villages gave me the necessary guidance and made my village stay comfortable and fruitful. The discussions with Bhau, Aba, Dada, Anna from Furandhar Taluka gave me a good insight into rural dynamics. I am grateful to all of them.

I am thankful to the University of Poona for giving a stipend and the Indian Council of Social Science Research for their fellowship to carry on this work.

I express my gratitude to the Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics, for its wonderful academic atmosphere in which I could spend a few years. My special thanks go to Dr. N. Rath (Director), Shri D.P. Apte (Registrar), Shri D.R. Joshi (Asstt. Librarian), the office staff; to Shri D.B. Sardesai, Shri S.K. Rajopadhye for their statistical assistance and to Shri S.M. Kulkarni for his prompt and efficient typing.

I am greatly indebted to my family members and friends who showered their good wishes and helped me in a number of ways from time to time.
