ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The scholar is highly indebted to his guide Dr. A.P. Padhi, President, Indian Political Science Association, Professor, P.G. Department of Political Science and Public Administration, Sambalpur University, Jyoti Vihar, Burla for his inspiring guidance, proper and timely advice and constant supervision without which the presentation of this thesis would have been difficult.

He is also grateful to the scholastic support received from Dr. Surendra Kumar Pattnaik in completing this thesis.

His thanks are due to Yuvraj Jitamitra Singh Deo, Kahiraj Prayagdutt Joshi for their material support.

The scholar is highly obliged to the Principal, Members of the teaching staff, Khariar College, Khariar for their moral support. He is also grateful to many of his student friends who helped him during the field work.

The scholar is grateful to the Election Commission, New Delhi, Indian Institute of Public Administration, New Delhi and the District Statistical Office, Kalahandi for their ready provision of library and data assistance. His thanks are due to his wife Lily and kids Bulbul & Chiky for their support in the completion of the work. Dr. Supriyo Chatterjee deserves thanks from the scholar for making necessary correction of the manuscript.
Last but not the least, he is thankful to Sri Sauri Shankar Barik, who typed the handwritten scripts and Sri Pramod Kumar Pattnaik who typed the final manuscripts timely.

Bijaya Kumar Pradhan,
(Lecturer in Political Science, Khariar College, Khariar, Dist. Nuapara, Orissa)