ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Frequently, in life "we run up", in Wittgenstein's phrase, "against the boundaries of language", and words fail to communicate thoughts, emotions and sentiments, much more the latter. For nearly seven years now, Dr. Tahir Asghar, my esteemed Supervisor, has been a constant source of inspiration and has encouraged me in whatever I have undertaken to write. His unfailing interest, friendly advice and constructive criticism have sustained me through my research work.

Others, besides him, gave substantial help, for which I wish to record my thanks to Prof. Shashikant Jha, the Chairperson of our Centre, Prof. Ajay Patnaik, Prof. Nirmala Joshi, Prof. Sam-Su-Din and Dr. Tulsi Ram for their ungrudging assistance in extending me many valuable suggestions. I am grateful to Prof. R.G. Gidadhubli, who instilled a sense of confidence in me during my M. Phil work, which later culminated in this research work.

In carrying out this research, I had the opportunity to discuss the problems with some of my friends in this university and other universities and to receive their valuable suggestions. It is not possible to name all of them. However, I am particularly indebted to Mika Oshagu, Rihito Yamamura of Slavic Research Centre, Hokkaido University, Hokkaido, Japan and David J. O'Brien of Missouri University, USA, for their timely and invaluable help to me.

I would grossly fail in my duty if I do not mention the names of Shri Man Mohan Samal, the Hon'ble Member of Parliament, Rajya Sabha and Mr. Sankar Mittal whose unforgettable constant cooperation and unparalleled interest has able to make my thesis brick by brick. A word of thanks would be too insufficient to express my heartfelt gratitude for them.

I am also fortunate to have the cooperation of my friends like Dr. M. M. Taba, Ranjana, Nalin, Rajan, Maxew, Lalu, Rabi, Sanjib, Jitu. To other friends, Santia Bapu, Pulu, Jogina, Hemant, Samir, Liloo, Dillip etc who have helped me in their different capacities towards the successful completion of the work.

I fervently hope, the members of my family, most particularly my parents, my brothers and sister-in-laws, my nieces and nephews will accept this as a woefully inadequate compensation, if it can ever be adequate for long hours of silence and weeks and months of absence from home and consequent neglect of familial responsibilities. I would like to express my sincerest feelings of gratitude to my Priya, my beloved wife, for her uncomplaining cooperation, without which my thesis would not have seen the light of the day.

We learn not only from our teachers and the books we read. We also get much from great figures we come across. The noble words of such persons come to us in the form of gems of wisdom, though it depends upon our own capacity to preserve them as well as to transmit them to the coming generations with certain amplifications. I had the benefit of this kind by virtue of my beloved brother late Sripati Jena and I take the opportunity of respectfully dedicating this work to him as a token of my honest gratitude and boundless love.

Perhaps this study might never have been completed, but for the grant of fellowship by University Grants Commission, India. I would like to thank the authorities of JNU Library, UN Library, Russian Cultural Centre Library, Parliament Library, Ratan Tata Library for their timely help and cooperation. My thanks to Sonu Printers for giving an immaculate finishing touch to the thesis.

Last but not the least, while thanking each and everyone those who have stood by my side in the bygone years. I was indeed fortunate to have all of them as my mentors, though I hasten to add that the responsibility of the contents of this study with all its limitations remain solely mine.
