ACKNOWLEDGMENT

First and foremost I would like to express my gratitude to my supervisor Dr. S. S. Deora. His able guidance, constant support and encouragement throughout the Ph.D. work enabled me to complete all this required work.

He has been extremely sympathetic and has stood by me through the different phases during the preparation of this thesis.

I am indebted to the Center (CIPOD), for providing the research environment which inculcated in me a sense of sincerity and hard work. Ever helpful and encouraging attitude of the faculty towards solving my problems will keep me inspired to pursue further research.

I am also thankful for valuable information and suggestions given by: Dr. Elias (Faculty of Forestry, Institute Pertanian Bogor, Kampus IPB Darmaga, Bogor), Ms. Carol J. Pierce Colfer (CIFOR, Bogor), Mr. Jonny Holbert (Staff-Ministry of Forestry and Estate Crop, Jakarta), Cambell, J. (Ford Foundation, Jakarta) during my field work.

The generosity and cooperation shown by all my respondents during fieldwork (in Indonesia) enabled me to stay in the study area to complete my field work. I feel obliged to all of them for their love and aid. I am also grateful to my friend Iskandar and his family members, they provided me a home during my stay in Indonesia and also other valuable support.

I am also thankful for valuable suggestions given by Mr. Amitav Mohanty (R.A. in Forest Research Institute, Dehradun during 1997-98) Assistant manager in R.M. & Plantation Bilt Co. Ltd. Bhuvneshwar and Deep N. Pandey, (Associate Prof. in Indian Institute of Forest Management, Bhopal) and also grateful for the valuable suggestions of Prof. Krishna (Indian Institute of Forest Management, Bhopal).

I am also grateful to my friend Rushada who painstakingly went through my chapters and her invaluable and apt suggestions helped me to put my work in a better shape. I would like to thank my other friends Suryasikha, Kalpalata, Bhawana, Meena and Archna for reading and suggesting various ideas in some parts of my this manuscript.

I wish I could put this in better words, my happiness and gratitude for the support, trust and care I got from my friends - Namita, Meena, Rajesh, Pushpita, Sangeeta, Menka and others who have directly and indirectly helped me in various ways during this period when often things seemed so hopeless.

The constant moral and financial support provided by my family has sustained and has provided me the opportunity to continue my higher education.

The motivating force behind endeavor is the love and trust bestowed on me by my parents. My father who passed away when I was still writing my thesis, would have been very happy to see this finished thesis. But I know that without his belief in me it would not have been possible.

It has always been difficult for me to find words to express what I feel for those who help me by any means and show their concern and love. I am unable to reciprocate. I wish to humbly admire such people and appreciate their help extended in various ways during my research works.

(Kavita Arora)