Acknowledgements

Working in a college situated in one of the remotest parts of the country, Sarupathar in Assam, which is surrounded by the Naga Hills on one side, Mikir Hills on the second, the Dhansiri river on the third and the Nambor Reserve Forests on the fourth and hundreds of kilometres away from any of the universities in the State it was a very difficult task to do research on a topic like the one I had chosen. So I had to seek the help of a good number of people in the process of conducting my research study. First of all, I am greatly indebted to Mr J.K. Chand, Reader, Post-Graduate Department of English, Utkal University, Vani Vihar, Bhubaneswar for guiding all through my research at the expense of his valuable time. I am grateful to Prof. (Mrs) P.N. Das who had encouraged me to take this research study.

In writing Chapter 2 of my thesis which traces the development of English education in India I have used several pieces of information collected in A Students' History of Education in India by S. Nurullah and J.P. Naik published by Macmillan and Co., Calcutta (1962) and in "The Needs for English in Orissa", an unpublished Ph.D. dissertation by Mahajiteswar Das, Central iv
Institute of English and Foreign Languages, Hyderabad (1977) because I could not have easy access to old original documents. I have also used some of the research instruments like questionnaires (with some modifications) of Mahajiteswar Das which he had used in his research. I am indebted to S.Nurullah and J.P. Naik, and Mahajiteswar Das.

I express my thankfulness to the staff of the following libraries for their help: the CIEFL Library, Hyderabad; the CIEFL Regional Centre Library, Shillong; the ELTI Orissa Library, Bhubaneswar; and the English Seminar Library, Utkal University, Bhubaneswar.

I express my gratefulness to the following scholars, academicians and friends who have extended a helping hand each in one way or other during the course of my research: Dr Santosh Kumar Satapathy of Utkal University; Mr Saroj Das of the ELTI, Orissa, Bhubaneswar; Dr T.Sriraman, Dr Rama Mathew, Dr K.A. Jayaseelan, Ms S.R. Inthira, Dr S.R. Prahlad and Dr M.N.K. Bose of the CIEFL, Hyderabad; Dr Bruce J. Kreutzer of USIS, American Center, Calcutta and Mrs Sukla Mitra of the British Council, Calcutta; Dr Mukesh Srivastava, Dr T. Muralidharan, Mr Chakra, Mr Sarangdhar Baral, Mr Kanan Sundar Khandayatray, Mr Brundaban Panda, Dr Muralidhar Das, Mr Uday Dutta and Dr (Ms) Chitra Datta;
Mr Muhikanta Tamuli, the principal of Sarupathar College; Mr Atul Chandra Goswami and Mr Bijay Kumar Danta of Dibrugarh University; Mr Rajib Bora, Dr Padmeswar Gogoi, Mr Biren Dutta and Mr Tusar Kanti Das; Mr Bhaben Tanti, Mr Mintu Bora and Mr Tilak Deka of Sarupathar; Mr Trinath Nayak, Mr Bhagaban Khuntia and Mrs Manjulata Khuntia of Bhubaneswar; and several others.

I am greatly indebted to my father, late Ishwar Chandra Sahoo (who died suddenly before the completion of my research), my mother, Mrs Sundari Sahoo and my brothers, sisters and others in the family whom I could not give the attention they deserved during the course of my research.

I must thank Mr Digambar Mahakul for typing my thesis within a short time.

Last but not the least, I am thankful to my wife, Mandakini, without whose constant prodding the study would neither have been resurrected from the state of near-abandonment nor ever completed.
