ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to acknowledge the immense intellectual, financial and emotional efforts from diverse sources that have made the completion of this thesis possible. First of all I did not have the remotest idea that I wanted to pursue an academic career until I was inspired and supported by my M.Phil supervisor Prof. K.L. Sharma. Prof. Sharma also guided me for two years for the PhD work. To him I owe the greatest debt of gratitude. Later on I found Prof. Anand Kumar as my PhD supervisor. Prof. Kumar taught me the ABC of political sociology in my M.A. days at JNU. His constant and patient hearing of my problems and suggestions thereof helped me in several ways during this thesis. I cannot imagine of any other academic guide who would have been so involved and concerned about my intellectual and personal problems in the way Prof. Kumar did. I acknowledge also Prof. Y. Singh, Prof. Dipankar Gupta, Prof. J.S Gandhi Prof. T.K. oomen, Prof. M.N. Panini, Prof. Avijit Pathak, Prof. Ehsanul Haq for their continuous support and affection during my entire JNU life.

My thanks are primarily due to the university Grants Commission which has been quite generous in financing my research as a form of research fellowship. The fellowship enabled me to meet the entire expenses involved in the field work and other expenses related with this research.

I would like to thank many friends who shared their time and invaluable ideas that benefited me both intellectually and emotionally. Among them I like to acknowledge especially Saurabh, Dr. Pradeep Kumar, Rajeev Sharma, Ritu Sharma, Meenu Di, Chandan Srivastava, Mukesh Kumar and Vithan Pathak for their immense help during the editing and proof reading the entire thesis. The friends who contributed in terms of lessening my mental tensions during this research are Sujeet Thakur, Dhirendra Bahadur Singh, Sagar, Amit Rajan Rai, Amit (Lord), and Wasim. Equal credit goes to many friends and juniors who contributed me indirectly for this work. My sincere thanks to Sharda, Pinky, Sonal and finally my cutest friend and junior Monu for constantly encouraging me for this endeavor.

My best friend since my initial days in JNU Sangetta needs special mention as she has shared every moment, related to this work. Her valuable suggestions and timely intervention at the time of need helped me enormously.

I thank also the staff members of the CSSS for all their help. I am thankful to the staff of JNU central library, Nehru Memorial Library, New Delhi, ICSSR library, for their kind cooperation during this work.
I would like to take the opportunity to deeply acknowledge my elder brother Mr. Sudhir Pandey who was a great source of energy throughout this research work. I shall always be grateful to him for all his novel suggestion and many innovative ideas.

I have all the reasons to thank my brothers, best friends, Dhiraj and Praveen for always managing to bring out the best in me and for being a source of constant encouragement at all times.

I am extremely lucky to have a wonderful family who has been always with me throughout; words cannot express the sense of gratitude I feel for them. My parents have been the driving force behind me all throughout my life. Their love and affection keeps me motivated to face different crisis and challenges in life. I shall remain extremely grateful to them.

Finally, I must add that the responsibility for any limitations or errors of judgment in this work is entirely mine.

16th August, 2005

JNU, NEW DELHI.

ARVIND KUMAR PANDEY.