ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This dissertation has been planned, organised and prepared under the able guidance and wise supervision of my respected guide Dr. P.G. Rama Rao, Department of English, Utkal University, Vanivihar. His balanced approach, his learned advice and particularly his encouragement when I was discouraged by many of my friends in choosing such a formidable topic, have been of immense help to me. His unforgettable remark: "A difficult job must be done. If your stand is clear, if you yourself do not feel confused, go ahead, and pay no heed to what others say," will ever ring in my ears. Words fail to describe how much I owe to him.

I am also much indebted to Dr. D.K. Roy, Registrar, Utkal University, whose vast erudition, particularly on Metaphysical poetry has been of great help to me. Some of the precious books that I have read in connection with my project were suggested by him. The sincere concern and the personal intimacy that he displayed while helping me as a research scholar have encouraged me a lot in my work. I owe a deep debt of gratitude to him.

I am grateful to the authorities, employees and even gardeners of the National Library, Calcutta, for their warm reception and ready help whenever I visited the Library.

I must thank my learned friend Dr. S.A.N. Moorthy, who was Professor in charge of the U.G.C.Cell in Kendrapara College and who did his bit in helping me in getting grants from the U.G.C.

I am also grateful to my Principals Mr. D.K. Samantray and Capt. P.K. Satpathy, who granted me leave liberally and even extended financial grants to enable me to go to the National Library, Calcutta.

I am to offer my heartfelt thanks to a distinguished personality Padma Bhusan Prof. Trilochan Pradhan, Director, Institute of Physics, Bhubaneswar, who willingly allowed me to work in the library of the Institute for about a month and also to Sri D.K. Chakravarti, Associate Scientist and Sri Subash Chandra Rath, Librarian of the said Institute, who helped me a lot in my study and arranged valuable books for me from a local book stall, costing thousands of rupees, payment for which was made a year later when I got the U.G.C. Grant.

I also owe much to my colleague and room-mate Mr. Dambarudhar Behera who took much interest in the thesis and with his fine sensibility and meticulous care for detail helped me a lot in trimming, perfecting, and finalising the work.

Above all, I am grateful to that Supreme power who, as the creator of all things, is the master of the Divine Creative Imagination and who has enabled me to write this dissertation on the role and range of man's creative imagination.
